Germ-Infected Area Called Free of Danger

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Deseret test center commander says it is true a plot of ground in Utah was sown with deadly anthrax germs in a 1954 biochemical warfare test, but denies the site is hazardous to animals or men.

A statement that the area is a continuing peril by a New York congressman was described by the commander, Brig. Gen. John G. Appel, as "a case of making a big thing out of nothing."

"The only way a person could possibly contract pulmonary anthrax at the site would be to dig into the dirt and eat it," said Appel.

Spores Develop

Anthrax, most commonly found in cattle or sheep, is caused by a persistent bacterium which reproduces through the development of spores. The disease may be contracted by human beings who handle parts of infected animals or breathe in spores from the animals' hair, and can attack the lungs with fatal effect.

Appel said anthrax germs cause the fatal lung disease only when a massive dose is inhaled and "this is very rare."

He said the test site at the Dugway Proving Ground in Western Utah was deliberately contaminated 15 years ago by spreading about a teacup full of bacteria over an area 100 yards square.

Rep. Richard D. McCarthy, D-N.Y., asserted Wednesday "this anthrax-ridden area in Utah poses hazards to wildlife and to humans moving in and out of the area."

Island Contaminated

McCarthy said British biochemical experts planted anthrax germs on the Scottish island of Gruinard early in World War II and in 1966 reported the island was still contaminated "and probably will remain contaminated for 100 years."

Appel said tests show the organisms penetrate deeper into the ground each year and while the soil remains contaminated the danger of contracting anthrax from it decreases.

As for the Dugway site, he said, "Today you could walk over the area in safety, although nobody does because we want to be ultrasafe."

He said the Dugway site was selected for the test because there was no animal life on it and only a few small rodents in the surrounding area.

Transient Animals

Apart from the rodents, Appel said, "the only kinds of animals in the area are transient animals like coyotes" and a fence around the site keeps coyotes out.

Coyotes, he added, "are not very susceptible to the disease. Man also is not very susceptible."

Appel said researchers have found evidence of anthrax in Utah in isolated cases, but added that research has turned up no evidence of pulmonary anthrax.

"I daresay you can find anthrax germs in soil any place in this country, but that doesn't mean they're going to go anywhere but there," he said.

Nixon to Get Mother's Money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Nixon and his brothers Edward and Francis have received the balance of the $34,671.91 apiece which they inherited from the estate of their mother, Hannah M. Nixon.

Mrs. Nixon died Sept. 30, 1967, at 82. Her will divided her estate equally among her five sons, but two of them, Arthur and Harold, preceded her in death.

The president and his other two brothers already had received $20,266.67 of their shares. A court approved distribution of the balance Wednesday.

At 8:55 p.m. the Guitarro was on the river bottom.

The congressman said the sinking was the outgrowth of "inadequate coordination of ship construction activities ... failure to assign specific responsibilities ... inexcusable carelessness."

The report concluded the "ultimate responsibility for the accident must, of course, be borne by the shipyard commander (Rear Adm. Norbert Frankenberg) who held the ultimate command responsibility."

Sub Silence Sank Same

Communications Breakdown Caused Guitarro Sinking

VALLEJO, Calif. (AP) — A breakdown in communications between work crews filling and emptying water tanks on opposite ends of the ship, unaware of each other's work, caused the $50 million nuclear submarine Guitarro to sink at its outfitting dock May 15, a Congressional subcommittee says.

The report, issued Wednesday by three congressmen, said the circumstances which sent the submarine to the bottom of the Napa River in 35 feet of water was "wholly avoidable" and occurred because of "inexcusable carelessness."

No one was injured and the vessel was refloated May 18. Crews began repairing damage running into millions of dollars, and sought to have it ready for commissioning scheduled later this year.

Fuller Report

The congressman, Samuel Stratton, D-N.Y., John E. Hunt, R-N.J., and William J. Randall, D-Mo., said their interim report would be followed by a fuller one to the parent House Armed Services Committee.

Their report told the following story of events:

A nonnuclear crew was moving and adding water in forward tanks to trim the ship so it would be suitable for tests to be conducted by a nuclear crew in the aft portion of the sub.

Meantime, the nuclear crew, thinking the vessel already in trim and unaware of the other workers' activity, began its own tank calibration tests using water.

After the nonnuclear crew had added 3,000 gallons of water to ballast tanks to lower the bow, it went to lunch.

At 7:50 p.m. the nuclear group began emptying five tons of water from the aft section, completing the job at 8:30 p.m.

Massive Flooding

A member of the nuclear group noted a sudden marked dip in the ship forward and went to investigate. At the same time the other workers returned and noticed the submarine down sharply at the bow "with massive flooding taking place through several large open hatches."

The report said efforts to prevent the sinking by closing water tight openings in bulkheads within the ship were thwarted because numerous construction lines and power cables passing through them could not be detached quickly.

At 8:55 p.m. the Guitarro was on the river bottom.

The congressman said the sinking was the outgrowth of "inadequate coordination of ship construction activities ... failure to assign specific responsibilities ... inexcusable carelessness."

The report concluded the "ultimate responsibility for the accident must, of course, be borne by the shipyard commander (Rear Adm. Norbert Frankenberg) who held the ultimate command responsibility."

Military Tightening Rules

Goldbricking Guardsmen to Land On Active Duty For Two Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The armed services are putting into effect a Defense Department policy providing that reservists or National Guardsmen who goldbrick can be called to active duty for up to two years.

Affected by the get-tough policy are young men who were deferred from the draft by joining the National Guard or reserves.

In the past, the penalty for failing to meet drill and training obligations was a 45-day "involuntary" active duty tour.

This apparently wasn't stiff enough to wipe out malingering, so the Defense Department decreed a tougher policy earlier this year.

Now any man found "unsatisfactory" in carrying out his reserve obligations may be called to active duty for up to two years.

Latest Move

Each of the services is putting the policy into effect, with the Air Force the latest to move.

Under the law, young men may enlist in the guard or reserves, receive from four to 10 months of training, and then return home.

However, they are obligated to drill regularly with their units. The overall obligation lasts six years, counting the initial training time.

Weedend Drills

In this way, a young man can escape being drafted for two years of full-time service unless there is an emergency callup, as happened to some 38,000 guardsmen and reservists last year after the North Korean seizure of the intelligence ship Pueblo and the enemy winter offensive in Vietnam.

The emphasis used to be on faithful attendance at drills, which normally are held on weekends.

But the stress has been widened to cover the way a man performs—whether he applies himself to sharpening his military skill, or just goes through the motions.

The Pentagon policy paper says that "failure to remain a member of a selected reserve unit or to meet prescribed standards for attendance at drills and active duty for training, training advancement and for performance in duty constitute unsatisfactory participation."

However, the document is no more specific than that, apparently opening the way to wide latitude on the part of commanders as to what specific acts—or lack of action—fits the definition. This could lead to difficulties in applying the stricter sanctions, and possible controversy over what constitutes malingering.

Britain Creates Metric Board

LONDON (AP) — Britain's plan to convert to the metric system moved into high gear Wednesday as the newly created metrication board set a target date of 1975 for completion of the change.

The board, a part of the Ministry of Technology, said the conversion will be particularly important to Britain if it succeeds in entering the Common Market, where all the member countries use metric measurements.

Britain is also changing to decimal currency, with the conversion due to take place in February 1971.

Respirator Could Help Save Lives of 25,000 Infants

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Virginia Tech announced today development of a respirator for infants who have trouble breathing—an ailment that now claims the lives of about 25,000 babies yearly in the United States.

Tech spokesmen said physicians evaluating the performance of the highly sensitive respirator reported it has brought a significant reduction in infant mortality.

The respirator, developed by Dr. Leon J. Arp of the Virginia Tech faculty after one of his own infants fell ill, was said to have increased the survival rate of newborn babies afflicted with respiratory distress from 50 per cent to 85 per cent.

Brain Damage

Of the infants who survive what physicians call the "respiratory distress syndrome," approximately half now suffer brain damage because of insufficient oxygen. The respirator also cuts into this toll, the school said.

Arp, head of Tech's engineering fundamentals division, developed the respirator in eight years of self-supported research. Only developmental models of the respirator are available now. Commercial production is to start next year.

Several respirators are at Roanoke Memorial Hospital, where the equipment was first tested in February 1967. One each is in use at the Medical College of Virginia Hospital in Richmond and the Harvard Children's Hospital Medical Center in Cambridge, Mass.

Rapid Response

Equipment already exists for treatment of infants with respiratory distress. The superiority of the Arp respirator, doctors said, lies in its sensitive and rapid response to the needs of the infant struggling for breath without great interference with his circulatory system.

The respirator is designed to help keep the infant well supplied with oxygen and in this way can prevent brain damage from oxygen deficiency. Arp began work on the respirator in the summer of 1961, when one of his own newborn twins began showing symptoms of respiratory distress.

"We were lucky," Arp said. "The child lived and appears to be normal."

Arp then a professor at Iowa State University started work on the respirator there.

The respirator measures about 23 inches long by 10 inches high by 12 inches wide. Models have been built in Tech's industrial engineering laboratory—eight prototypes thus far.

Medical Journal

Details of the respirator's development are contained in a two-part article written by Arp and three associates for the

May and June issues of the medical journal, "Anesthesia and Analgesia."

The associates are R. E. Dillon of the Tech industrial engineering laboratory and Drs. T. J. Humphries and D. E. Pierce of the Roanoke Memorial pediatric staff.

In clinical trials of the respirator at Roanoke Memorial starting in June 1967, Tech reported, 200 of 4,156 infants born at the hospital developed respiratory distress.

More Survived

Ninety-nine had only mild symptoms and were not treated with the respirator. The 101 others received respirator assistance. Approximately 85 per cent—as against the usual 50 per cent—survived.

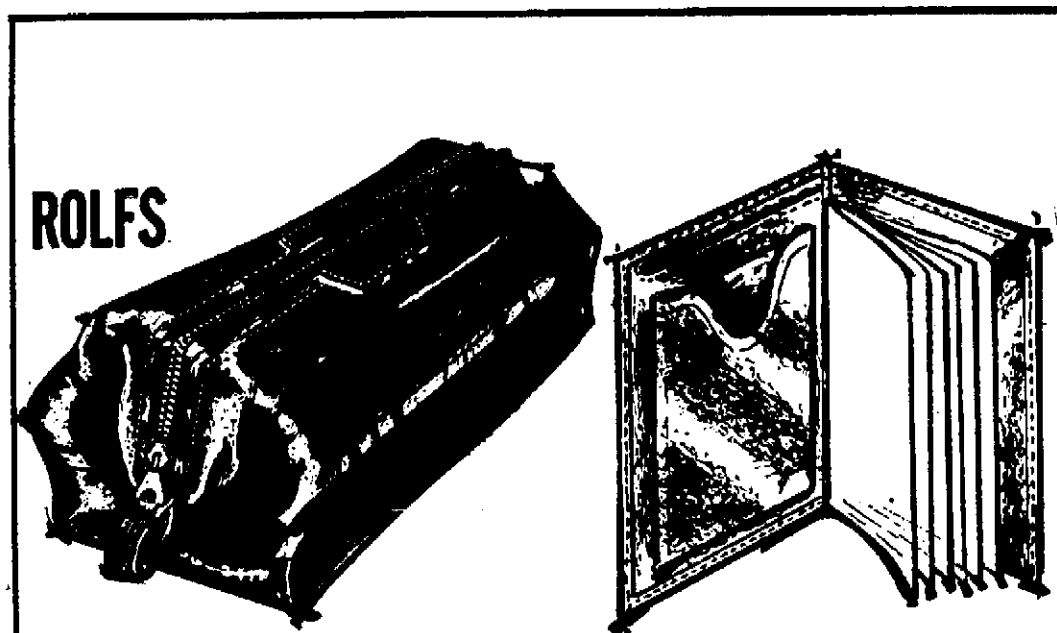

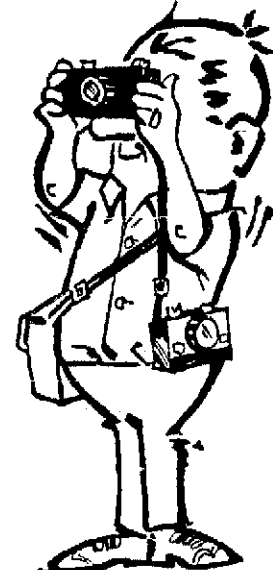

Virginia Tech's twin-engine Beechcraft airplane has been made available for transporting infants to the hospital, which is 45 miles from here. The aircraft is equipped with a respirator, an incubator and other equipment.

A respirator-equipped ambulance meets the plane and rushes the baby to the hospital, where he is placed in the intensive care nursery.

Interruption in respiratory assistance "for even a minute or two can trigger irreversible changes in the patient that will cause death," Arp said.

Grape Boycott Figures In California Politics

Gene Tunney's Son Loses Support for U. S. Senate Because of Position in Fight

BY ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK Democrat against Republican

FRESNO, Calif. — When Rep. John V. Tunney stepped off a private jet here recently to address a Democratic dinner, the first person to greet him on the runway was the local president of the Young Democrats (YD) who promptly attacked his neutrality in the California grape boycott.

Tunney got more of the same that night. The Fresno YDs boycotted the $7.50-a-plate dinner at the Palm Lakes Golf Club because of Tunney's non-commitment on grapes. The few students from Fresno State College who did turn up grumbled, both to Tunney's face and behind his back, over grapes.

Tunney's night in Fresno was one piece in a growing mass of evidence that the grape issue will begin to hurt his bid to get the 1970 Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate. But the grape issue only symbolizes the Fresno dinner, building up difficulties a young potential statewide recognition to around star faces in the heavily ideologized, completely unstructured old beginning his third term in Democratic party of California.

The Best Shop Assiduously avoiding the second opinion of California's political pros, Tunney has po-tentially the best shot of any cultivated all factions. He is on good personal terms with both State Rep. Jesse Unruh and Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco, who are on a collision course in next year's election. At the same time, he has developed warm personal relationships with the Jewish millionaires of Beverly Hills, whose financial support is invaluable.

Grapes May Hurt By March 1, Tunney was the winter book favorite to win the nomination and take on Murphy. But it was just then that his difficulty with the grape issue started to ferment.

Mainly because of lack of sympathy for the striking grape pickers in the Imperial Valley represented by Tunney, he fled the issue in his re-election campaign to congress last year. He advocated union bargaining rights for farm workers but refused to take a stand on way or another on the grape boycott, maintaining that it was no business of a congressman. That is his position to this day.

Actually, a statewide majority might well agree with Tunney. But in this state's ideologically oriented Democratic party, support of the grape boycott today is as much an imperative as opposition to the Vietnam war was two years ago. Thus, Tunney's neutrality on the boycott is winning him dangerous enemies among left-leaning Democrats.

Two days after the Fresno dinner, Tunney tried to ease this danger by attending a rally of grape strikers in Calexico (also attended by Tunney's friend, Ted Kennedy). Tunney told friends he had revealed his sympathy for the strike in a private conversation with strike leader Cesar Chavez, improving Chavez's attitude toward him. But whatever gains he made were wiped away when Tunney was booed at the rally, an event widely reported throughout the state.

Neither of the two congressmen favored by the left for the senate — Reps. Phil Burton and George Brown — has much chance for the nomination. But Tunney, weakened by the left's assaults, could be wiped out in a primary by either of two better known possibilities: S. I. Hayakawa, president of San Francisco State College, and Stanley Mosk, justice of the California Supreme Court.

Of the two, Mosk is the more likely to run. After passing up excellent shots at the senate in 1964 and 1968, Mosk now seems in the mood. He recently commissioned a private poll that showed him much stronger than Tunney and sent copies of it to friends around the state. Mosk, who is Jewish, could cut deeply into the Beverly Hills financial support that Tunney has been cultivating.

Tunney's friends feel Mosk was premature in releasing the poll because Tunney has no place to go but up in future surveys. But that overlooks the emotional pull of the grape issue. Unless Tunney satisfies the ideological demands of California Democrats, he may become the latest victim of the party's meat-grinder.

Spell of Dizziness Blamed in Death Of Jeff Hunter

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Police say actor Jeffrey Hunter probably suffered a dizzy spell, tripped and fell to his death down a short flight of stairs.

Hunter, 42, was found unconscious at the foot of the stairs Monday in his Van Nuys home. He died after brain surgery Tuesday.

Detective Sgt. Jesse A. Tubbs said Wednesday Hunter suffered recurring dizzy spells after he was thrown against a train compartment last month while making a movie in Spain.

Tubbs said the actor apparently lost his balance at the top of three-step stairway, knocked over a planter and fell, fracturing his skull.

Funeral services will be Saturday at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Van Nuys.

White Patch in Mouth Bears Careful Watch

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a white patch, leukoplakia, on the lower gum. I wear a lower partial. I asked my dentist, and he said it was nothing to worry about, but my doctor books says it could be cancer. I am worried. — Mrs. E.F.

These are thickened white patches on the membrane, caused by irritation. They can occur on other mucous membranes, but primarily they are in the mouth, on gums, lips, or similar areas.

The irritation can be from dentures, full or partial; from smoking (especially a pipe, because a pipe gets so hot, but can be from cigarettes or cigars); from a jagged tooth or sharp edge of a filling; even from the irritation of chewing tobacco. Your doctor book is quite correct in saying that these patches of leukoplakia may become cancerous, but that is a good deal different from saying they will. Some do, many don't.

So I don't see any useful purpose in just removing them when they appear.

I do see all sorts of purpose in keeping watch, however, and in doing whatever is necessary to avoid the irritation that causes them.

If a patch changes in size or thickness, that is the time for a biopsy, to see whether any malignant (or pre-malignant) change is occurring in the cells. Then the patch can be removed, if necessary.

How to avoid irritating the membrane? Don't wear dentures at night; give the membrane some hours of rest. A jagged tooth or filling ordinarily can be readily fixed. Do I need to say what to do about habitual use of tobacco?

I wouldn't worry about the possibility of cancer as long as the area can be watched.

Dr. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What does malaria do to blood that it ruins it for life in terms of giving it to blood banks? — A.T.

Malaria doesn't "ruin the blood." However, the nasty thing about malaria is that the germ can lie dormant for considerable periods, then become active again.

With most types (there are several varieties of malaria) these flare-ups can be controlled without too much trouble — but you still don't want to pass onto someone else, via a blood transfusion, the dormant germs which then could start bothering him.

It is my understanding that blood will be accepted two years after exposure or one attack of malaria; if there have been two attacks, the donor is rejected.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: We read of a new drug for angina, the pectoris that could be taken, say, three times a day and prevent attacks from coming on, instead of trying to stop them with nitroglycerin tablets. Would you write about it? — B.E.H.

Nitroglycerin is a time-honored remedy for angina attacks, but there are numerous variants, various nitrates, both long- and short-acting. Hence I am not sure which one you are referring to. You may mean the one which, chemically, is isosorbide dinitrate. It is a relatively new one. Whether it would be effective in your case

New Yorker Is Given Unusual Welfare Grant

NEW YORK (AP) — A welfare recipient has received money for golf pernis and greens fees from the city because physicians say he needs "special therapeutic experience." His bid to buy a race horse with city funds was turned down.

The city Social Service Department admitted the unusual grant Tuesday, but denied a charge by the Bronx district attorney that it had given the client grants to make up gambling losses at the race track.

Bronx Dist. Atty. Burton D. Roberts said David Davis, 31, also had applied for special grants to buy a trotting horse, buy appliances and send his wife to a psychiatrist three times a week.

Davis was in court Tuesday for a hearing on four counts of grand larceny on three of petty larceny. Roberts said the seven charges accused Davis of cashing welfare checks, then claiming he had lost them and receiving and cashing replacements.

is a question which your own doctor must answer.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My children had the required DPT shots, but what does the DPT stand for? — M.I.D.

It stands for diphtheria-pertussis-tetanus — pertussis being whooping cough, and tetanus, as you know, the organism that causes lockjaw.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Los Angeles Sweeper Is Found in Colorado

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The $13,000 street sweeper that vanished in November 1967 has mysteriously turned up in Aurora, Colo.

Ernest O. Weber, vice president of the Los Angeles Board of Public Works, said Tuesday the bright-orange machine was traced through its serial number after Aurora requested a service manual for it. The manufacturer notified Los Angeles that its sweeper had been found.

Weber said "I think" the 9½-ton machine will be returned after some unanswered questions are cleared up.

Your Money's Worth

Sylvia Becomes Golfer; Finds It Big Business

BY SYLVIA PORTER

After years of holding back, I am finally trying seriously to learn to play golf — and even before I join you in your summer madness, I am discovering that I haven't taken up a game. I have become part of a fabulous "economic force." I am not simply succumbing to a popular pastime; I have become an eager paying customer of an array of businesses which together add up to a golf market of $6 billion a year and range from golf hardware to club memberships, from haute couture golf wear to 19th hole refreshments.

To be honest, though, how much of a laggar can I be? As of today, 11 million of you are playing golf, up 183 per cent in only 10 years (and the number is still climbing at the rate of 6½ per cent each year, according to Universal Publishing & Distributing Corp., publisher of "Golf" and "Golfdom"). And these are just the golfers who play at least 15 rounds annually; another two million play less rounds each year. Incidentally, although 87 per cent are male, the number of women playing golf regularly is climbing faster than the number of men.

As for the "why?" that's easy.

Leisure Time, Prosperity

As is the case with virtually all sports, the upsurge in golf reflects our era of growing leisure time and prosperity. The typical golfer, says Golf Magazine, has attained a relatively high income; the average income of Golf's subscribers is close to $17,000 a year. Even more revealing is the finding that almost four in 10 golfers now take vacations exclusively to play golf — which accounts for the rapid rise in the past decade of the golf resort.

At the same time, golf is no longer a rich man's sport. In the early 1930s, nearly four-fifths of the 5,700 golf courses in the U.S. were private, expensive country clubs. In the small remainder were all the municipal and semi-private courses. Today, there are an estimated 10,000 courses, of which are bare 4,000 are private. The balance includes thousands of municipal and semi-private courses. About 300 new courses are being built yearly.

Third, the value of the game as a lifetime sport is being increasingly recognized and this is particularly so for the physically handicapped and the elderly. The boom in golf carts, so ideal for those with heart ailments, is just one illustration of the business offshoots of this fabulously growing game.

Finally, the popularity of golf is encouraging the construction of nine-hole and par-three courses which use up far less space. This inspires more players, which in turn inspires more construction of golf courses near to urban areas, etc.

But even if you go along with

Parents and Children

By Arnold Arnold

Children Need Rewards, but Not With Green Stamps, TV Commercials, Candy

Kids need rewards more than punishment or restraint. And when they need punishment. But the manner of recognition and the quality of encouragement need much parental thought. Many parents, including educators and psychologists, sometimes neglect to consider the implications of the examples and rewards they offer children. Three horrendous instances have recently come to my attention.

The first consists of Green Stamps, awarded juvenile delinquents for acceptable social behavior, by a Detroit juvenile agency. The clinic's chief psychologist thinks this is a great idea. The second application of a related principle is provided by the "Television Workshop," a pilot National Education Television project funded to the tune of 8 million dollars by private foundations and the U.S. government. Part of this program, due to be launched this fall, will consist of "teaching" the ABC's to pre-school children via TV.

Through "commercials" similar to those used to sell soap suds to their mothers. The rationale is that kids respond to commercials. The same techniques are designed to evoke "consumer responses" to learning. And the third example consists of a teaching machine that releases candy from a dispenser, whenever a child gives the right answer to a problem. Every time these kids see Green Stamps, TV commercials, or that brand of candy, they'll salivate like Pavlov's dogs. This Russian scientist proved more than 40 years ago that reflexes can be conditioned in such ways. It may be a good way to sell merchandise. But this is a very bad idea then applied to children's upbringing or education.

Children want to do things well. They need and like rewards and encouragement. And they'll follow, for the most part, the examples set for them at home and in school. A child who knows and cherishes rewards will seldom, if ever, need punishment.

LEGAL NOTICES

STATE OF WISCONSIN, OUTAGAMIE COUNTY COURT—IN PROBATE

Seconded by Mr. Sunmicht and carried on roll call vote.

The committee further reported that additional textbooks will be recommended for the seventh and eighth grade mathematics program when a joint study of the mathematics program, grades 1-8, is completed by the Elementary Department.

Old Business:

In response to the direction given at the Board's February 10, 1969, meeting, Mrs. Heil submitted copies of an organized public relations plan, dated April 27 and on file, for the school budget-making process and which calls for public participation. Invitations will be sent and publicly given for the first "talk" meeting scheduled for Monday evening, June 2. Mr. Buchanan appointed a special committee as follows to implement the plan: John Stevens, Chairman; Mr. Roberts and Mrs. Heil, Mrs. Mabel McClellan, Board member elect, was named a citizen member. Superintendent Speers will be an ex-officio member of the committee.

Mr. Stevens made a motion that the Board of Education send a letter to the Wisconsin Legislature in support of Assembly Bill 496, which would require that the title, deeds and leases to real property of all school districts must be vested jointly in the name of the municipalities within the school districts, and Senate Bill 189, regarding employment of legal counsel for the schools. Motion seconded by Mr. Sunmicht and carried on roll call vote.

Adjustment was moved by Mr. Sunmicht, seconded by Mr. Sater, and carried on roll call vote.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Suttner

Pair Marks 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Suttner, route 1, observed their 50th wedding anniversary Saturday with a mass at St. Joseph Catholic Church which was sung by the seven children of Mrs. Mary Boehman, Hortonville. Mr. and Mrs. Suttner were given a ride from the church to (the American Legion Hall in a 1912 Model T Ford owned by William Wunderlich.

Mr. Suttner is one of the oldest members of the Appleton City Band and still can be seen marching in parades. He began his playing career in 1914 with the Fond du Lac Military Band. The couple has three daughters: Mrs. Arthur Wegner, Fond du Lac; Mrs. Hugo Werth, Neenah, and Mrs. Anthony Boehman, Hortonville. They also have four grandchildren.

Happier Marriage Tips

1. Analyze your marriage habits. Which ones can be changed so that you will be able to get more out of your marriage?
2. Ask how you can inject greater spontaneity into your marriage.
3. Seek more opportunities for positive communication. Every couple can benefit by more open and freer communication.
4. Introduce more of the play element into your marriage. Play is a form of enjoyment and pleasure and adults, as well as children, need to play.
5. Verbally recognize and talk about the strengths in your partner and in your marriage.

Ban Fingermarks

When putting up ceiling tile, dust your hands with cornstarch or powder to absorb any perspiration. That way there will be no fingermarks or smudges on the new ceiling.

Monday Club Celebrates Its 70th Year

The Monday Club of Appleton brought its 70th year to a close at a recent luncheon at the Presbyterian Church. Two AFS students, Sylvia Gazzaneo of Uruguay, and Torbjorn Skjelaasen of Norway, presented the day's program.

The group, which limits its membership to 25 women meets the first and third Monday at a member's home. Dessert is served and a book review given.

Luncheon Meetings

At the beginning and end of each club year, which runs from October to May, luncheon meetings are scheduled and special programs usually planned.

Each member may choose her own subject for review—thus assuring a varied sampling of current literature.

Historical Review

This was not always the case. In the early years—those before 1900—the program chairman arranged for a theme of the year (these were often historical) and the subject was studied in depth at all meetings with several women reporting at each session.

In addition to its active members, the club has nine members, who by their own choice have been put on an honorary, supposedly inactive, list—although the honorary members who reside in Appleton attend regularly.

One of the honorary members, Mrs. A. H. Wickesberg, entertained with a historical review of the minutes of the past 70 years at the group's April meeting. From these minutes, members were able to glean a look into the past. One thing they learned was that the club had once had an active auxiliary called The Washday Widowers who entertained members from time to time at formal dinners in local hotels or drives by carriage or cutter to picnics at cottages at near-by lakes. Entertainment on these occasions was based on a literary theme and members often wore period costumes or fancy hats to add to the gaiety.

Varied Program

This year's program points up the varied program the club has had in recent years with the reviewing of such books as: "Japanese Lantern," by William Swann; "Triple Rich Farm," by Ruth Pochmann; "Journeys in Green Places," by Virginia Eifert; "Old Peninsula Days," by Hjalmar Holand, and "How Did It All Begin?" by Rabbi Brasch.

Mrs. Donald Graangard has been elected president for 1969-70 and will be assisted by Mrs. E. D. Miller, vice president; Mrs. R. R. Rowlands, recording secretary; Mrs. R. G. Hauert, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. E. S. Godfrey, treasurer.

Sylvia Gazzaneo, Uruguay, and Torbjorn Skjelaasen, Norway, two of Appleton's AFS students, were guest speakers at a luncheon marking the end of the 70th year for the Monday Club. With them are club members, Mrs. Earl Miller and Mrs. Donald Grangaard. At left, it was the first meeting of the 1963-1964 club year and members met for a Colonial Tea Party at the home of Mrs. Mary Rowell. To make the occasion festive, the women dressed in costumes similar to those worn in earlier days in America.

Plan 'Fun Day' for Volunteers Involved in Girl Scout Program

Saturday, June 21, will be a very special day for the more than 600 women who are serving as leaders or assistant leaders for the Fox River Area Girl Scout Council. Because scouting could not exist without these women who believe in this day will be used to say "thank you" to each of the women for time and effort spent throughout the year.

Their day of fun in the outdoors will begin at 10 a.m. and continue until 3 p.m. at Camp Winnecomac. Activities have been scheduled for any kind of weather and include singing and games, a skit by staff members and hikes to explore the camp. Casual clothing (slacks recommended) will be worn. Lunch will be a sandwich scramble. Everyone has been asked to bring a sandwich home. These will be placed together until lunchtime when each person will choose one for her lunch. Beverages, fruit and dessert will be provided by the Girl Scout office.

Because this party is especially for leaders and assistant leaders, those attending have been asked to make arrangements for their children to remain at home.

Reservations should be sent to the Girl Scout office before Friday.

Directions to Camp

Directions to camp Winnecomac are as follows: Go north to Wisconsin Avenue through Little Chute. Stay on this road until Lawe Street in Kaukauna (Park School will be on the left.) Turn right onto Lawe Street and go to the first stop light. Turn left, cross the Thimble Bridge and follow Island Street to Dodge Street. Turn left onto Dodge Street and continue past the swimming pool. Turn right onto County Trunk Q. Follow Q and Camp Winnecomac is on the left at the edge of the city limits.

Orange Special

For that special dinner party, serve a combination of vanilla ice cream and orange sherbet. For topping, pass an orange-flavored liqueur.

County Home Agent Discards Marriage Theories at Altar

By MARLENE LEININGER, Longmont, Colo., Daily Times-Call

LONGMONT, Colo. (AP) — An unmarried county extension home agent learns many theories about what makes a successful marriage and a happy home.

But what happens when she gets married?

How well do the theories work out in practice?

This was the question posed to Mrs. Marie Lienert Johnson following her recent marriage to Vern W. Johnson, an insurance agent, after 10 years serving as an unmarried Boulder County extension home agent.

Marie answered the question bluntly. "The theories just are not relative to the real situation. In homemaking studies I was taught that important things include: serving hot meals hot, and cold meals cold; keeping the house spotless, managing the money efficiently, and on and on.

"Kindness and Understanding." "But these things are not essential to happiness. Kindness and understanding for each other are most important, and from these comes the love that makes a couple happy. This you don't learn in a homemaking course or even in years of talking with homemakers."

"One thing her training did for Marie was to make her the best cook in Boulder County," Vern said. "She also shows a deep concern for my welfare. Doing things for each other makes the marriage bond just that much stronger."

"Since we had both been long single, we each had strong independence. Now you might say we share our independence together. I must admit that life with Marie is even more wonderful than I had imagined it would be. I was afraid, or I should say I was surprised — well, not really surprised, but..."

Husband Enjoys Her Independence

"What he's trying to say diplomatically," broke in Marie with a chuckle, "is that I had lived alone for so long that he thought I'd be hard to live with."

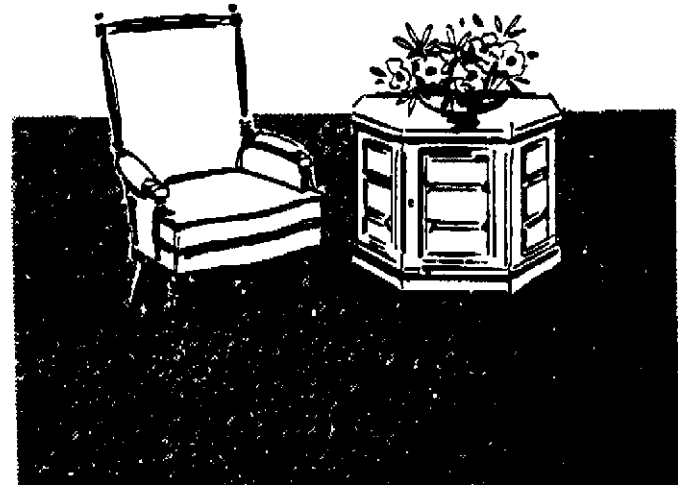

At that they both laughed.

"I enjoy the independent attitude she's built up," said Vern. "Usually a woman leans heavily on her husband. It's intriguing to find a woman who can take the lead when she needs to or to play the feminine role equally as well."

Marie continued with more of her "new" theories of the happy marriage: "At times one partner has to give up personal desires in recognition of the other partner's needs."

Advocate of Single Standard Still Enters Kitchen

BI. ARLEEN ABRAHAMS
NEW YORK (AP) — The kitchen is one of the last places one would expect to find Helen Gurley Brown, high priestess of swinging single girls by virtue of her books, "Sex and the Single Girl," "Sex and the Office," and her present position of editor of Cosmopolitan magazine.

Yet three or four nights a week, "the standard bearer for the single standard" can be found in the kitchen of her mid-Manhattan apartment, cooking "a little something" for her husband, David Brown, vice president and director of 20th Century Fox.

"Some nights after leaving home at 7:30 with satchels of work while I'm getting out the ice cubes, putting the tenderizer on the steak and heating up the water for the broccoli, I say to myself 'Good God, what do I have to do to get out of the kitchen? I've achieved something. How successful do you have to be to avoid this?'"

Dining Out Uncomfortable

"Of course, if we were very rich I could get a Cordon Bleu cook for $50 a day, but I'm too thrifty for all that. And although I adore restaurants—her favorite food is chocolate souffle—"going to a restaurant every night is so inhibiting. Pantyhose are tight, false eyelashes are heavy; it's hard to be really comfortable."

To be fair, Mrs. Brown admits to having a house-

worker who sets everything up but that still leaves her in the kitchen—alone.

"Every now and then I think why not get David Brown into the kitchen, at least to make his own cocktail? But he's not that kind of man. My heart bleeds for him when he cuts a lemon. And because of all the things he's done for me—the idea for 'Sex and the Single Girl' was his—and because after being a high tempered career girl all day it may be therapy to be a cave woman, I just put together a little something that can't go wrong."

Cookbook for Single Girl

The little something may be roast chicken, ground sirloin or veal piccatare with two vegetables and a dessert topped by mounds and mounds of Dream Whip.

Although these instant meals please her husband and her two Siamese cats, who she admits to feeding from the table (but since they also eat house shoes and angora sweaters one can't vouch for their gourmet tastes), the single girl no longer need be content to follow Helen's example or to exist on TV dinners. Now thanks to "Helen Gurley Brown's Single Girl's Cookbook", the with-it miss can discover the creative aspects of cooking, starting with the basic essentials of stocking a cupboard.

"I've always felt that cooking is one of the things a girl can do to have a lovelier life. You don't do all this cooking for a man specifically, you do it for you and in turn you'll have a fuller life," she explains.

Margo Rieman Recipes

Helen, admittedly a poor cook, didn't come up with the recipes herself. She got Margo Rieman, who has published two other cookbooks, to create those in her book. But the commentary on what to wear and how to serve a dinner for two the book's organization—food for the five stages of the affair—are all Helen's.

No, the book which she spent four years working on doesn't contain a list of aphrodisiac recipes.

"I wondered if we should phony it up that way," she comments. "but I just couldn't. What's aphrodisiac is the fact that much of the food is high in protein which is essential to good health. Being healthy makes you feel sexy."

Liquor she notes is an aphrodisiac in the sense that it tends to lessen inhibitions "and thus should be part of any dinner." But the attractive little Mrs. Brown cautions girls not to let a guy get too much liquor. "Then he's good for very little."

One of Woman's Charms

Does she believe that a girl can actually cook her way to a man's heart? "I doubt it. It could only happen with a real gourmet who's 400 pounds and lives to eat. Cooking, however, should be part of any woman's arsenal. Use it as part of your charms, but don't compete with his favorite restaurant. Since I believe in a single standard and reciprocity, I feel a girl should invite a man over to dinner after he has taken her out three or four times." This advice, she says, doesn't apply to an obvious freeloader or those men who fear any exhibit of domesticity.

Helen describes herself "as an average person who never saw a vision of being the spokesman for liberated single women a hood—"All I ever hoped to do was put one foot in front of the other and not fall down." The copywriter who worked her way up from the secretarial ranks says that she never expected to get any book published; "the letter accepting my first book was the biggest thrill of my life."

Still Thinks 'Single'
She attributes her success to "pouring myself into everything—including a lot of things that haven't worked out." One thing that has worked out is her editorship of Cosmopolitan—an extension of her beliefs and creed.

Although Mrs. Brown has been married 10 years she claims she still thinks single. "I think of a man as a man, not as a friend of my husband or someone to get the ice—he's man and I don't ever forget it."

But Helen wouldn't want to be single now. "I've done all that I'm 47 and married and comfortable and it's appropriate to be married at my time of life."

Wedding Promises Exchanged

OSHKOSH — Honeymooning in Cape Cod, Mass., are Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mikes, who were married in a 5:15 p.m. ceremony Saturday at Sacred Heart Catholic Church. The Rev. Jeremiah Worman officiated at the double ring rite.

The bride, the former Miss Cheryl Lynn Stieg, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Stieg, Skokie, Ill. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Mikes, 1429 Berger St. Miss Cynthia Stieg, Skokie, attended her sister as maid of honor. Miss Roger Wilson, Miss Barbara Englebert, Miss Diane Moldenauer, Miss Kathleen Bukowski and Miss Nancy Kass were bridesmaids. Miss Rebecca Seaberg was junior bridesmaid. Miss Mary Jo Miller acted as flower girl.

James Mikes performed the duties of best man for his brother. Groomsman were Thomas Benkoske, Thomas Spahat, Thomas Steckbauer, Charles Rayner and Daniel Tuckscheider. Guests were seated by Dennis Youngworth and Timothy Spatt. Jerome Youngworth was ring bearer.

The couple greeted guests at a reception at the Pioneer Inn. Miss Mikes was graduated from Mercy Medical Center and was employed as a registered nurse by the center. Her husband is employed by The Abbey, Fontana.

They will reside at Fontana.

Dandy Look in For Little Boys

For young gentlemen spring 69 is slanted to the Dandy Look, reports the National Cotton Council.

The Nebu seems to have about run its course, and little boys this spring will be dressed in cotton suits and coats with Edwardian styling—fitted and flared.

The classic Eton suit, with short pants and collarless jacket, is still very stylish for small boys. Favorite fabrics are the washables: cotton knit, cotton duck and spring-weight corduroy.

Your Problems

Readers Asked to Help Abused Children

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Do you know how many little lives you might save if you informed your millions of readers that they need not stand by helplessly while neighbors and relatives beat and neglect and abuse their children? Many cities and states have ordinances and laws to protect children against cruelty which, of course, the result of sick minds. For God's sake, help those kids.

Here are the proper steps:

- (1) Take the child immediately to an impartial doctor or to a hospital for examination. Do not select your family doctor or a doctor who is a relative or a personal friend.
- (2) If, after examination, the doctor says the child has been abused or criminally neglected, call a police officer and have the courage to sign a complaint if you are asked to do so.
- (3) If the child is of school age, take Ann Landers' advice. A teacher can be an excellent witness. These days so many people are afraid to become involved they say it is dangerous to poke your nose into other people's business. Please tell them a helpless child is everybody's business.—L.A.

DEAR L.A.: Bless you for your letter. Often people need encouragement to follow their better instincts. You have given it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 19-year-old girl high school graduate. My fiancé will be joining the Air Force soon. Ron is 20 and in excellent health.

I was telling a friend that I became depressed about thinking about Ron's being away from me. She said she had read somewhere that a couple can sign up for the Air Force under the Buddy System and do a full hitch without being separated. Is this true? If it is I'd like to do it. Please let me know immediately.—Love Him

DEAR LOVE: I've checked around and learned that the Air Force will "try" but they give no guarantee that lovebirds who take their training together will be assigned to the same area for service. It might work out that way, but the Air Force promises nothing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS:

Thank you for not saying anything against the young man who wore a kilt. His girl was shocked and her mother almost fainted, but they were ignorant people who didn't know anything about the kilt's great tradition of manhood and courage. Those of us who live in Racine are proud of our Drum and Bugle Corps. They won the National VFW Championship in 1964 and again in 1968.

It's a glorious sight to see those handsome lads marching along with their bagpipes, wearing kilts. Those of us who know, consider kilts not only snappy-looking but a darned sight more respectable than trousers that are so tight a kid can't sit down in them. Sign me — Highland Fling

DEAR HIGH: I've seen the Racine Drum and Bugle Corps and they are as inspiring a group as ever tooted its way to the top. Cheers!

Dirty Helen...an Unforgettable Character

BY ALICE K. HUCK

Post-Crescent Women's Editor
When the wife photo came across my desk last week announcing the death of Dirty Helen in Milwaukee part of my youthful, fulfilled, exciting and some times daring past came floating around me in sound and color.

The sound was the raucous laughter at a bar. It was Dirty Helen letting loose with her famed and awesome string of vulgarities toward an unsuspecting customer whose hilarious friends had been goaded into ordering a martini from a bar which served from two bottles—good Scotch and good bourbon.

The color was the inch-deep red carpet, the pot-bellied stove, the nude painting on the wall and the gaslight at the entrance of the brown-frame neat building tucked among the ramshackles on St. Paul street in "the ward."

No stool was ever empty at Helen's bar and the elbows bent in some sort of a rhythm because in "her" place you didn't sit long if you were merely occupying space that could be more profitably used by a drinking customer.

And she told you so in a constant stream of words the likes of which Milwaukee has probably never heard before and never will again from a man or woman proprietor in a public place.

You never heard these words from the customers I wasn't allowed. And a meaningful curse could get you quiet to sit out on the street. So could being a loud drunk. Quiet drunks were sympathized with and cared for; noisy drunks no matter how important (I saw a legislator displaced one night) were evicted.

I've often wondered about the fascination of our gang for Dirty Helen's Ours was not a vulgar crowd. Perhaps it was the vicious thrill of seeing the quiet night when she had a could have been "caught" in "big shot" get put in their bar under and the current, cur places by the boisterous red-haired organist was "sick," hauled haridan who more often Helen gave a few of us a peek than not was plotting behind inside. She happened to like the bar in bedroom slippers fellow I dated back in the fifties and she would talk about "how tough it was in the never called on the same God's houses" in northern Wisconsin. Himself or his son her land and during her childhood in guage seemed more colorful Indiana. She talked sometimes, than profane Helen could have about her sons neither of whom written her own thesaurus on "have ever been allowed to step foot in my place."

Oddly enough on an unusually In fact, no under-age person

Mrs. Helen Cronwell, acid-tongued Milwaukee tavern operator known as Dirty Helen, died last week at the age of 83 in a Wauwatosa nursing home. She was reputed to be able to outswear almost anyone in town and everyone from society folk to politicians came to hear her do it. (AP Wirephoto)

A Teen and Her Makeup

Answer this: Do you ever stop to think that the condition of makeup brushes determines the finish of a makeup — good or not so good?

For sure, a grimy brush can only do a grimy makeup job. Worse, it is a threat to your complexion because it comes to harbor harmful bacteria. Brushes obviously must be kept in pristine condition.

There is wisdom in investigating effective methods. Just as you can flay your skin with a soiled brush, you can flay a brush by improper cleansing.

Every cosmetic brush should be wiped with cleansing tissue after each use. Several times weekly, brushes should be squeezed through a whip of mild soap flakes and warm water.

Then, a thorough rinsing is in order, under a running tap or in a basin of cool water. Next, damp-dry the fibers by pressing between paper towels. Lastly, shake to fluff and set to dry.

For the drying process, insert handle ends in a jar so that bristles are exposed to the air. Lip and liner brushes should be twirled to a point before drying. Wedge-shaped eyebrow coloring brushes are the exception to the rule. Keep them flat while drying, in a wrap of clear plastic and under a heavy object like a book.

But, really, the cleansing habit is more important than the method!

Put aside your grooming doubts and worries! Send today for Your Grooming — A to Z, a booklet that covers every step in achieving smooth looks. It tells how to manicure and pedicure, use deodorants and depilatories, bathe for beauty, tend feet, hands teeth and eyes, polish skin and hair, care for clothes, apply perfume, overcome personal posers. To obtain your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of The Post-Crescent, enclosing a long, self-addressed stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin.

Legion Auxiliary Elects Officers At Black Creek

BLACK CREEK — Mrs. Leroy Conradt, Shiocton, was elected president of the Outagamie County Council of the American Legion Auxiliary. Other officers elected were Mrs. Mary Van Toll, Kimberly, 1st vice-president, and Mrs. Marian Conradt, Shiocton, 2nd vice-president. Installation will be June 11 at Appleton in a joint meeting with the Legion.

Miss JoAnn Ronk, Shiocton Unit and Ninth District Poppy Princess, gave her Poppy talk and sang the Poppy Song.

Mrs. Sherman Kapp, Appleton, department legislation chairman, asked members to write their congressmen supporting the Anti-Ballistic Missile System. The next meeting of the council will be in September at Shiocton.

An interesting program on flower arrangements was presented by Mrs. Robert Kailhofer, Seymour. Arrangements were given as door prizes.

Fabric Collection, a Museum Display

BY CAROL HANSEN

Post-Crescent Home Furnishings Editor

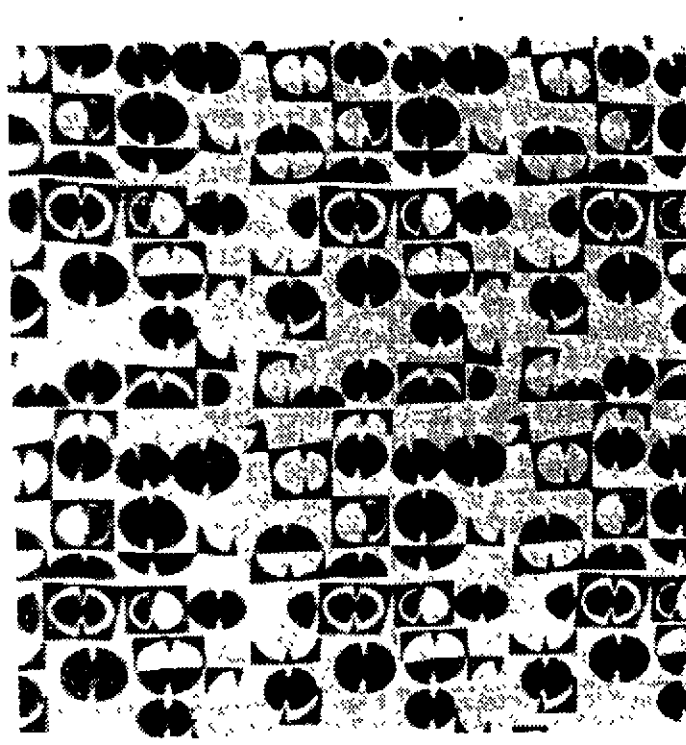

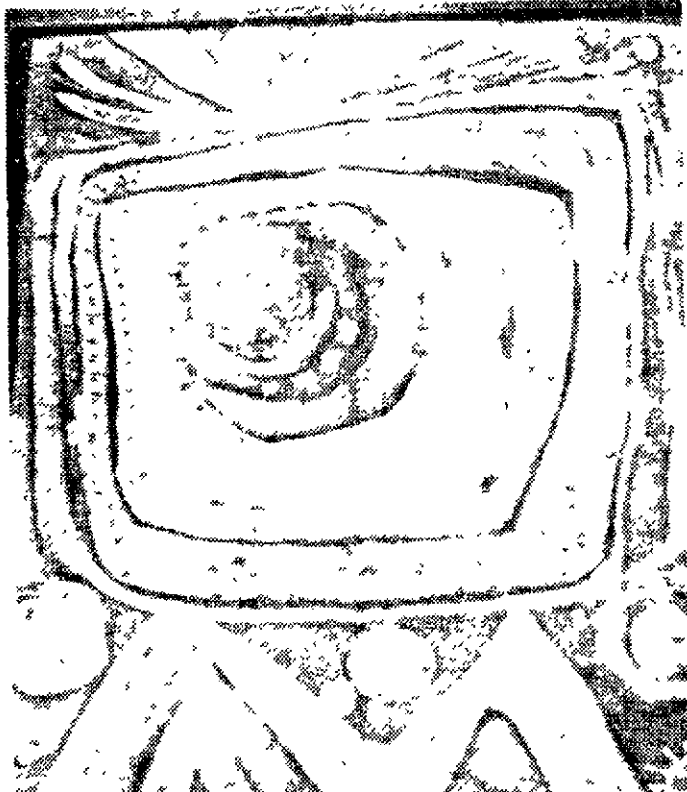

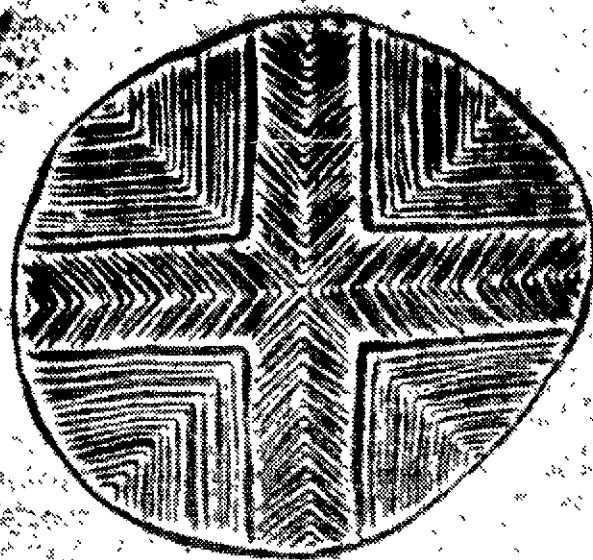

GREEN BAY — Showing in the La Baye Gallery at the Neville Public Museum through June 16 is a lovely textile display featuring the work of Richard Proctor. A member of the art department of the University of Washington, Seattle, Mr. Proctor's work consists of a series of batiks, printed and tie-dye fabrics, some of which are stitched and quilted.

Some of the fabrics could be used as wall hangings; others are lovely enough to frame. Some would lend themselves for uses as room or area dividers.

One of the fascinating aspects of Mr. Proctor's collection is his interesting use of color. Some of the combinations are exquisite.

The exhibit may be viewed Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m.

There is no charge for admission. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Sheinwold Warning Is Timely For Taxes

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

One of my informants in the Bureau of the Census reports that bridge players in the United States alone lost $7 million in the first five months of 1969 by relying on six missing cards in a suit to be divided 3-3. The Internal Revenue Service won't allow them to show these losses on their income tax returns because this column has repeatedly warned all good citizens to expect a 4-2 break or worse.

South ruffed the second diamond, drew four rounds of trumps and then started on the hearts. When the hearts failed to become established after he had led the ace, king and queen, South had no further play for his contract. He might have escaped for down one, but actually led a club to dummy's king and went down two.

The result should not have been a surprise since the odds are almost 2 to 1 against a 3-3 break in hearts. To cope with a 4-2 break, South should plan to ruff a heart in dummy.

Instead of drawing trumps, South should begin on the hearts immediately after ruffing the second diamond. South takes the ace and king of hearts and then leads a low heart in the hope of ruffing it safely with dummy's eight of spades.

Plan Works

This line of play would be quite safe if each opponent held three hearts because each would then follow suit while South ruffed the third heart in dummy. South would also be safe against a 4-2 break in hearts as long as the player with only two hearts did not hold the ten of trumps.

The plan works in today's hand. When South leads the low heart after taking the ace and king, West is out of hearts but cannot ruff higher than the dummy.

South ruffs the third heart with dummy's eight of spades, leads dummy's trump to his own hand and draws the rest of the trumps. Then he can cash the queen of hearts and the last

Dear Liz: Let's Grow Old

BY ERMA BOMBECK
Open Letter to Elizabeth Taylor Burton

Dear Liz:

I have seen you before on fan magazines: "What Liz Said to Debbie When They Met" ("Hi,") and "What Liz Said to Jackie When They Met" ("Hi, Jackie") but the headline on one cover was provocative. It read, "Liz Gives Advice to the Lennon Sisters on Growing Old."

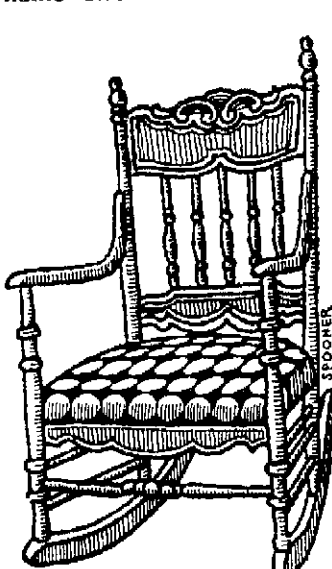

I quickly turned to the article; I'll face this crisis in a few more hours. Your advice was simply, "Keep breathing." Then it went on to quote you as saying what was so bad about old age. You worked for the wrinkles and you were going to live with them.

I was hoping I could enlist you in a movement to bring back old people. You're not going to believe this but we have a lot in common. Not only do our fingernails grow in the same direction, but I share your views on old age. We fight it because we fear it. We fear it because we don't know it. We have been told that Boy Scouts will force us to cross streets, our hair will come in lavender at the roots and the biggest thrill all day will be when our dentures fizz in the glass.

I don't for a minute believe this. And I refuse to play the game of youth with my friends. I have a friend who refuses to remember Pearl Harbor. I have another who pulls her wrinkles back from her face and secures them in a pony tail. I have still another who wears thermal lingerie under her see-through dresses.

Frankly, it would be refreshing to see just one big-name star who wrinkles a little from the neck up and sags a little from the neck down.

When I read of Betty

Grable, a 52-year-old grandmother, wowing them in a musical in London, do you think I admire her and say, "Betty, you little devil, you. How do you do it?" I do not. I bake a panful of brownies before the kids come home and eat everyone of them myself and I hate Betty for it.

How do you think a 50-year-old woman feels when she sees a movie star her age making love to Dustin Hoffman when it takes all of her energy to stay home and defrost the freezer.

Liz Taylor Burton, you could perform a great service to the over 40's of this country by looking your age, acting your age and being proud of it.

And just think, someday, thanks to you, we might see a woman with her natural white hair in a hairnet, a pair of shoes with round toes, and a pair of eyeglasses.

Love, Erma

'Social Security' Program Brings Infinite Benefits

Every woman needs two kinds of social security: the financial kind and the personal kind. Personal "social security" is the assurance of good grooming to meet all social situations. And faithful "deposits" — in terms of daily baths and beauty treatments — will pay off in "benefits" of lovelier, livelier looks.

The daily bath, a beauty benefit in itself, can be worth even more if you suit your bathing routine to your personality. One woman's bath is another one's shower — and on it goes. You owe it to yourself to choose the type of bath that fits your need. For example, are you a slow starter? A wake-up bath will stimulate circulation and eliminate hours of morning drowsiness. Whether the water is cold, hot, or lukewarm, scrubbing with a soapy sponge or washcloth will bring blood to those half-asleep muscles to give you a come-alive feeling.

Are you the kind of woman who feels a "five o'clock shadow" dims her energy? Even a short soak in tub or shower can be a revitalizer. Take time to build up a thick soap lather. While using it to wash away the oil and perspiration that accumulate during the day, you will also be giving yourself a much needed rest.

You can make bathing more luxurious by assembling a "wardrobe" of bath accessories. A pretty flowered or ruffled cap makes you feel more feminine and cheerful. A long-handled back-scrubber — in an interesting shape, color, and texture — will enhance the pleasure and success of your suds-and-water beauty routine.

All this and beauty, too — the benefits from your "social security" program are endless. And the sooner you start a regular program of good grooming, the more benefits you will derive in health, liveliness, and good looks.

Y Will Give Bridge Classes

Marriage Announced

PARFREYVILLE — Miss Signe Kay Porter became the bride of David Lunde in a 2 p.m. ceremony May 10 at United Methodist Church. The Rev. Raymond J. Fleming officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Porter, Waupaca. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Allan Lunde, Milwaukee.

Miss Kathryn Tellock attended her cousin as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Beverly Sorenson and Miss Kathy Bonnell.

Performing the duties of best man was Bruce Golding, cousin of the bride. Bruce Lunde and Daniel Rath were groomsmen. Guests were seated by Douglas Golding and Fred Lunde.

The newlyweds were honored at a reception at the church.

A graduate of Stevens Point State University, the new Mrs. Lunde is employed by Sears Roebuck and Co., Waupaca. Her husband is stationed with the Army at Ft. Campbell, Ky.

Men Like Wool For Flex-Appeal

Flex-appeal is one of the main reasons why men go for wool sweaters in such a big way. The wool fiber is so naturally resilient that it can be stretched beyond one-third its size and will bounce back to its original shape. That means real free-muscle comfort. And it also means that when his figure once in a while seems to go all to pot, his wool sweater accommodates g-i-v-e-s without any of that spanned, stuffed-in appearance. You've seen it work, when guys turn up on the handball court in their 20-year-old varsity wool sweaters, bragging that the old waistline is as trim as ever. Great little kidders, those stretchy wools.

Your Problems

Problem Solved With a Small Apartment

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of a sister and brother-in-law who announce, between the soup and the salad, "We are moving to Texas so you'd better find another place to live?"

objectively What do you think? — Bewildered Brother
Dear Bruth: I think your sister and brother-in-law do

Landers

I'm a bachelor, (middle 40's) and I lived with my widowed mother until she remarried — 20 years ago. Ever since then I've made my home with sis and her husband. I've been very happy here and figured it would always be my home.

I don't think I'd have moved to Texas even if they invited me, but I do feel that they should have at least asked. Maybe I'm not seeing this not owe you a home for the rest of your life. The fact that they didn't invite you to move to Texas with them indicates they'd prefer to live alone. Accept it graciously and look in the papers for a small apartment or a room.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: One Christmas Day my 17-year-old daughter's 22-year-old boyfriend came to the house to dinner looking grubbier than usual. His hair was in need of a shampoo, his clothes were unpressed and dirty and he looked like a bum.

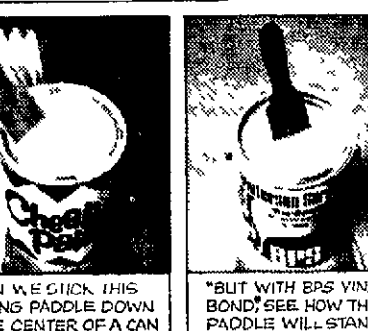

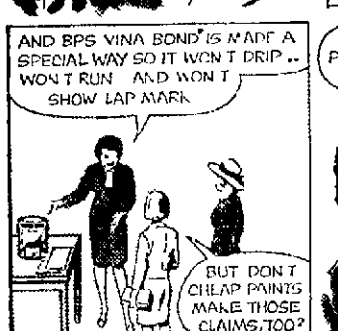

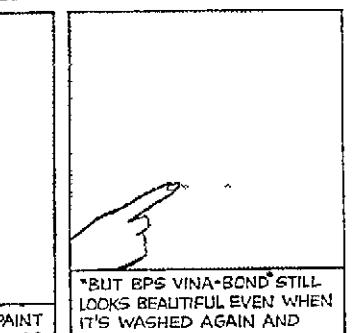

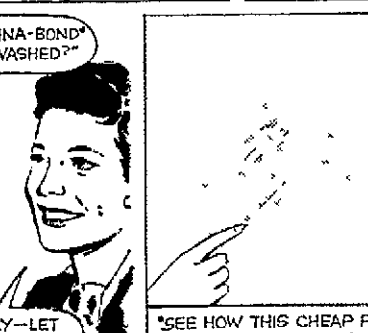

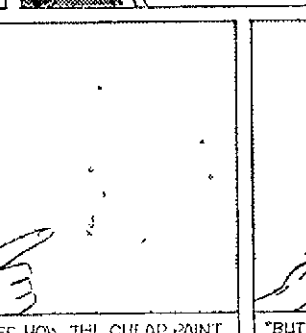

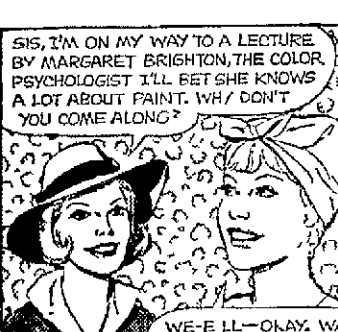

He handed me a Christmas card which I refused to accept. In a very civilized tone of voice I said, "If you had washed your hair and worn a clean shirt it would have meant a lot more to me than this card. Thank you anyway."

He called me a "rotten snob" and "a poor excuse for a human being." Although he has been to the house several times since that day I have not spoken to him. My daughter says I owe him an apology. I told her I'd freeze in hell first. The way I see it, he is the one who should apologize.

We have agreed to put the question to you. How about it — Vancouver Fray

Dear Van: You should have accepted the card and made no comment on his appearance. However the boy should not have spoke to you as he did. The way I see it, it's a draw.

I PAINTED THIS ROOM PINK, BUT WHEN IT DRIED, I SAW RED!

Billboard Firms Self-Regulation Plan Criticized

Would Designate 10 Per Cent of Roads for Signs

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON —After a quarter of a century of fighting off attempts of its critics to write highway billboard controls into state law, the outdoors advertising industry of the state this year offered a billboard regulatory bill of its own design.

But when the state assembly committee on tourism called it up for a public hearing Tuesday, the measure was pelted with a volley of angry criticism and ridicule from women's clubs, civic organizations, conservation groups and others. After nearly two hours of listening, Assemblyman Wesley Packard of Columbia County, site of a thriving tourist industry, announced that the committee which he heads would not take action "this time."

Philip Fox of Milwaukee, who for several decades has been the principal spokesman of the Outdoor Advertising Association of Wisconsin, told the committee that his clients had decided to take the initiative on legislative controls this year "probably to the surprise of some people."

Designate Areas

Fox defended the association plan to authorize the state highway division to designate up to 10 per cent of the 12,000-mile state trunk highway system, exclusive of incorporated places, as scenic corridors in which billboards would be prohibited. The measure would also impose a $250 annual license fee on billboard operators, and authorize highway officials to remove from the roadsides any signs that are owned by unlicensed operators.

Fox said that there are about 500 billboard operators in the state and that the fee, which he said he regarded as high, was designed to eliminate the irresponsible operators from the business.

The bill also was supported by Elmer Conforti of the Wisconsin Restaurant Association, whose members he said are the most numerous users of billboards. He said he spoke for the "hospitality industry."

When Packard asked for opposition testimony, a story of criticism broke loose.

Half a dozen indignant opponents claimed that the 10 per cent proposed ratio of scenic highways was the equivalent of declaring to the world that 90 per cent of the state highway system is ugly and not worth scenic protection.

Mrs. Joyce Erdmann of Madison, speaking for an organization called Scenic Highways, demanded that the legislature back another bill which would have the effect of eliminating all state highway signboards except those at intersections and at designated cluster sites such as rest stops and plazas.

Storm of Opposition

Other opposition came from the Wisconsin Natural Beauty Council, the Wisconsin Federation of Women's clubs, the Wisconsin Resource Conservation Council, and the Capital Community Citizens, an organization formed to promote environmental quality.

David Stewart of the latter group warned the assembly committee that the issue of preservation of the natural landscape and particularly billboard control is winning rank and file citizen adherents by the thousands. The voters want highway billboard controls, he said, adding that "there is political muscle in the issue of visual pollution."

The witness for the Resource Conservation Council denounced the "visually polluted environment," and Mrs. Erdmann claimed that the Advertising Association proposal was a "thinly disguised attempt" by the industry to escape realistic state control. She and others also claimed that the $250 annual license fee proposed was designed to limit competition in the industry by driving out smaller operators who would find such a fee prohibitive.

Boy, 9, Taken to Hospital After Auto Hits Bike

A 9-year-old Appleton boy was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital with injuries after his bicycle collided with an auto on Foster Street, just south of the Appleton city limits and east of Valley Fair Shopping Center, at 6:14 p.m. Wednesday.

Scott R. Church, son of Mrs. Dorothy Church, 1708 S. Adams, suffered leg and arm injuries.

Winnebago County Sheriff's Police said the mishap occurred as Church and a friend were riding southwest on Foster and Church turned left to cross the street into the Valley Fair parking lot and went in front of an auto driven by Jerome A. Thomson, 41, of 50 Ramien Court, Appleton.

City And State officials used a boat Wednesday to inspect the undercarriage of the damaged Oneida Street bridge, reporting the span is in poor condition. Later, Public Works Director Frank

Keuler, left, and State Engineer James Pautzke checked the deteriorating bridge deck and concluded it will have to be replaced. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Huisman to Head Citizens Committee

Reorganized Advisory Panel Amends Bylaws, Elects Officers

Meeting in 90-degree heat in the city hall conference room Wednesday night, members of the city's new Citizens Advisory and Improvement Committee elected officers for the year.

In addition, the 16-member group amended the by-laws to meet all federal government requirements and forwarded them to the city council for formal adoption next week.

Two former city officials were picked for top committee posts. They are Richard Huisman, ex-First Ward alderman, chairman; and Dennis Herrling, one-time assistant city attorney, vice-chairman.

Mayor George Buckley opened the meeting with an explanation of the makeup of the committee, which replaced another group that had 84 members.

Ignores List

Buckley also said in appointing the current committee he chose not to follow the recommendations of the previous group that submitted him a list of names.

After officers were elected by secret ballot, Huisman took over as meeting chairman.

It was announced student council presidents from the public and parochial high schools in Appleton will serve rotating six-month terms on the committee.

Terms of committee members were determined by drawing lots, and it was agreed vacancies would be filled by the mayor with approval of the city council.

Terms Of Members

Members and their terms are: James Schreier, Harvey Priebe and Ralph Gertsch, four years; Herrling, Lawrence Goetz, Huisman and Dale Morey, three years; the Rev. Ralph Sandgren, Mrs. Marge Lhost and Harold Wolfgram, two years; Thomas Heiss, Mrs. Irene Whittier and Marvin DeVries, one year.

Subcommittees will be appointed next month to assist the city in the areas of housing and urban renewal, general government, community planning, code enforcement, and the neighborhood improvement and participation.

Mrs. Joyce Enders was selected as the committee's permanent secretary. City Planner Jack Hetu is the group's administrator.

Memorial Day Parade Will Start at 9 a.m.

The Memorial Day parade has been scheduled to start at 9 a.m. The parade will form at Appleton and College Avenue, proceed east on College to Rankin Street, then north on Rankin to Pacific Street; east on Pacific to Riverside Cemetery, to the Grand Army of the Republic (GAR) plot.

Culminating the observance will be the Memorial service at the GAR plot. Lloyd J. Berken, past commander of the American Legion, will be the speaker.

Texas Woman Seeks Help From Appleton In Finding 2 Cousins

Help in locating two daughters of Mae Greene, who was born and reared in New York and died approximately 40 years ago, is being sought by relatives.

The deceased woman is believed to have married a man from Appleton.

A brother, Francis Jerome Greene, who was born in New York and raised in County Clare, Ireland, has a daughter, Mrs. Maureen Babin, 2529 Barry Ave., Groves, Texas, who is attempting to locate her two cousins, and asks that contact be made by anyone with information as to their whereabouts.

Library to be Closed On Memorial Weekend

The Appleton Public Library will be closed Friday and Saturday for the Memorial weekend.

Gordon Rebeau, director, has announced. Beginning next week and continuing until Labor Day, the library will be on summer schedule. It will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Mondays and Fridays; 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, and will be closed Saturdays.

Corporation Formed Officials Delay Issuing New Embers License

City officials Tuesday night expressed interest in the new corporate structure of The Embers, a downtown Appleton night spot, and in doing so held up approval of a license request.

Ald. Walter Kalata (2nd), chairman of the welfare ordinance committee, which must act on all license petitions before they go to the city council for final approval, disclosed he was not satisfied with the information received on the proposed new operators.

The present operator of the night spot, located at 730 W. College Avenue, was listed on the reports as Walter Michiels of Sherwood.

It was recalled that in January, the committee at the request of Michiels gave him 90 days to dispose of the business after police complained of the way the establishment was being operated.

At the time, Michiels claimed he was being harassed by law enforcement officials.

Recently, a former Kaukauna resident applied for a license to operate The Embers, but the committee turned down the request because he had a police record.

Since then a corporation was formed — The Embers, Inc. — and it presently has the license application pending.

Officers include: William L. Czeiszperger, Appleton, president and agent; Barbara Porter, Menasha, vice president and treasurer; and Joan Thompson, Green Bay, secretary, all in their early 20s and having clear records, according to information supplied the committee.

Wants License The new corporation, which apparently is taking over the business from Michiels, wants to assume the license for the

Deck Replacement Suggested

$200,000 to Repair Bridge

Replacement of the sagging S. Oneida Street bridge costing an estimated $150,000 to $200,000 will be recommended to the board of public works next week.

Public Works Director Frank Keuler made the announcement today after conferring with bridge engineers from the State Division of Highways.

City and state officials inspected the damaged bridge in the industrial flats Wednesday and discovered the deck and undercarriage in a deteriorating condition.

"It is a serious problem that should be remedied as soon as possible," Keuler said. He said he will have plans and specifications prepared to replace the existing 133-foot bridge which links the south end of the long-span bridge and south shore of the canal headrace at Appleton Woolen Mills. There are four spans in the bridge.

Rush Job

Keuler said in his conversation with state officials, they indicated the Division of Bridges might be in a position to do a rush job on plans for a bridge replacement.

In addition, Keuler said he was in contact with a Milwaukee consulting firm which conducted a bridge study for the city last year and received assurance it could give new bridge plans top priority should the city contract for them.

A week ago today the deck on the west side settled about three inches after supporting beams buckled. Since then the 40-year-old structure has been open only to single lane southbound traffic.

Financial Headache

Along with posing a safety hazard, the broken down bridge also represents another financing headache for the city which has been operating on a tight 1969 budget.

Depending on the total cost of the bridge replacement, the city may have to include the amount in a major bond issue it is contemplating for new school construction and other municipal projects.

The bridge replacement cost estimates, which Keuler said were realistic, are expected to jolt the board of public works and city council.

Construction of a new deck alone would cost $100,000, Keuler said. Additional expense would be demolition of the existing deck and replacement of other bridge parts that could add up to another $50,000.

Bad Condition

Piers and abutments supporting the 133-foot long and 45-foot wide deck are reportedly in bad condition, raising the possibility they may have to be replaced at a cost of about $50,000.

"I would say the top limit for what the bridge replacement may cost is $200,000," Keuler said.

Once the city council okays the crash bridge replacement project, it is expected the old street car tracks along the east side of the roadway will be ripped up.

The board of public works will make its recommendation Tuesday, and the city's 20 aldermen are expected to move swiftly to approve the project when they meet Wednesday night.

In the meantime the department of public works is imposing a 5-ton weight limit on the crippled span.

Architects Tell Committee to Build New Jail

Firm Says Full Study Needed Before Final Recommendations

An Appleton architectural firm this morning advised Outagamie County supervisors to strongly consider building a new jail rather than add to the present facility.

The "qualified recommendation" came from representatives of Sauter Seaborne Ltd., who appeared before the county board's public property committee.

Two other architectural firms appeared earlier with plans for the jail which the state has ordered closed. The committee was scheduled to meet later today with agents of Zwack & Peoples Ltd., Architects, of Appleton.

Committee Chairman Jerome Hiler of Appleton said a decision on the hiring of an architect probably will be made at a meeting next week.

Not Full Study

Sauter Seaborne architects said this morning, "we lean to a new building," but they were quick to add that they based their belief on what they had read and heard and not on a full study of the present facility.

They said that adding to the top of the courthouse, where the jail is now located, probably would not be structurally or economically feasible.

They also advised against a "two-level" jail, which would result if an addition were made to the top floor of the courthouse. Strong consideration also must be given to providing additional parking facilities, they explained.

The architects advised the committee to "first see what could be obtained through a new structure, then weigh that against the costs and advantages of an addition" to the courthouse.

Other Firms

The property committee, when it met with the other two architectural firms earlier, was presented with drawings and specific proposals.

This was not the case this morning, however. The two architects said they wanted the county to indicate a "program of what it wanted accomplished — a basic criteria," before they prepared specific recommendations.

Two months after the program was set forth by the county, architects would be able to submit alternatives. The architects cautioned the committee that they could not give the county solutions to the jail problem without a thorough study.

City Services to be Suspended Friday in Observance of Holiday

All city offices will be closed and garbage-refuse collections be suspended in Appleton Friday in keeping with the Memorial Day observance.

Residential refuse collections normally made on Friday were being taken care of today as the sanitation division put on extra crews.

It resulted in Thursday and Friday collections being completed in one day instead of two.

said the majority of the 47 board members want to build at the present courthouse site. He said, however, he was willing to listen to other ideas.

Expresses Fear

Supv. Walter Fredericks of New London expressed fear that the county would "over-build."

Board Chairman Sylvester Essler told the architects the county is trying to keep a rein on building costs because a new, 200-room golden age home will have to be constructed soon.

Vern Verhulst, state detention supervisor, told property committee members last Tuesday night that it would be "almost impossible or inadvisable" from a cost standpoint to remodel present jail facilities, which were ordered closed by June 21 unless positive action toward meeting state standards is taken.

Dairy Is Hit By Burglars

Money, Transistor Radios Among Items Reported Missing

Burglars hit Schaefer Dairy Products Co., 2036 Newberry Road, Wednesday night or early today and fled with money and merchandise.

Appleton detectives, who were notified of the burglary about 7 a.m., listed the missing items as $15 in change, six cartons of cigarettes, three or four cases of beer, two cases of soda, and two transistor radios, valued at a total of $80.

Entry was gained by forcing an east window, police said. Locks were pried from a beer cooler, two office doors, and a desk drawer.

There have been several burglaries in recent months at the Appleton firm.

Democrats Told of Hard Task in 1970

OSHKOSH — Gordon Loehr, Fond du Lac, 6th District Democrat chairman, told party members Wednesday evening they face a difficult task in 1970 to even reduce their losing margin in the congressional district.

He noted that Rep. William Steiger, R-OSHKOSH, drew support from independents as well as the Republicans.

Loehr told Winnebago County Democrats the party needs a candidate "with a good liberal Democratic background who is willing to invest $25,000 $30,000 in himself to bring the deficit from $3,000 to 8,000 or 10,000 votes."

Goal Posts Torn Down At Soccer Club Field

For the second time in as many weeks vandals damaged goals at the Fox Valley Soccer Club field.

The latest vandalism was reported to Appleton police Wednesday evening. Club officials said it cost $25 to repair the goals last time.

A Wreath Honoring Appleton's war dead was placed on the veterans' memorial at Riverside Cemetery shortly before dusk Wednesday by representatives of the American Legion. From left are Richard Jahnke, Milton Hemling, Mrs. Fred Riedl, Mrs. James O. Schroeder, Jerome Hiler and Oscar Kuhn. Appleton's annual Memorial Day parade will start at 9 a.m. Friday, followed by special ceremonies.

Kellett Picks Advisory Panel For State Education Study

28-Member Group Named To Raise Funds, Give Counsel

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — Slowly gathering momentum, the Governor's Commission on Education grew sizably Wednesday as William R. Kellett named a 28-member top level advisory panel — including a bevy of Northeastern Wisconsin educational and business leaders.

Gathered with them on the advisory committee to Kellett's study of all aspects of education in Wisconsin are business, labor, educational and civic leaders from throughout the state.

Kellett said that his commission is about ready to move into a schedule which calls for the completion of a comprehensive report by the end of the year.

"This is a once in a lifetime chance," he said of the education study he has been named to head by Gov. Warren P. Knowles. "If we miff it, it's our own fault."

Group President
Appointed president of the advisory group was James Brown, president of the West Bend Aluminum Co., treasurer of the group, which also will serve as the fund-raising arm of the commission and "marketing place" for commission recommendations, is Goff Beach, president of the Oscar Mayer Co., of Madison.

Kellett said that the advisory committee would be used for several purposes. It will function as a sounding board for recommendations from the eight task forces of the commission. The advisory panel will be used to find voluntary financial support for the commission, rather than seeking state tax funds for the study in a time of fiscal plight in the statehouse, said the retired president of the Kimberly-Clark Corp. of Neenah.

And the advisory panel, which eight task forces and to help them organize in the coming few weeks, he said.

Investigate Education
Aim of the study is to investigate — with the eight task forces involving between 400 and 500 state residents — aspects of public and private education on all levels in Wisconsin. In an attempt to discover if all modern economies and efficiencies are being used to provide the best quality of education possible today.

Kellett repeated his belief that the study, not yet started, could be completed by Jan. 1, 1970.

Northeastern Wisconsin appointees to the committee include James Kress, president of Green Bay Packaging Company; John R. Nash, Manitowoc attorney; Carl Steiger, Oshkosh, retired businessman and former president of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents; Robert Hood, president, Ansel Co., Marinette; the Rev. D. M. Burke, St. Norbert College, West De Pere.

Two prominent Democratic names also appeared on the list with the appointment by Kellett of Richard Cudahy and John Schmitt of Milwaukee to the committee. Cudahy, a former state Democratic chairman, ran for attorney general last year.

Schmitt is head of the state branch of the AFL-CIO.

Others Named
Among other prominent state residents named to the committee are Joseph J. Jolly, Kenosha, president of the State Board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education; Edmund Fitzgerald and Fran Ferguson, Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co., Milwaukee; John Joannis, president of Sentry Insurance, Stevens Point; George W. Mead II, president of Consolidated Papers, Inc., Wisconsin Rapids; Donald Schlichter of Milwaukee, chairman of the Governor's Task Force on Medical Education which made its study during the past two years; and James Windham, president of the Pabst Brewing Co.

Also announced by Kellett was a partial list of task force leaders who will form the nucleus for the studies of the commission.

Northeastern Wisconsin members include: George Burridge and Rudy Small, Green Bay; Marge Buchanan; and Russell Flom, Menasha.

More Than $180 to help with the ABC program this fall were earned by the Wilson Junior High School Student Council at an auction Tuesday. Auctioneer John Kloor, one of the teachers, takes bids on a toy elephant, which went for $3.75. The lucky bidder is Susan Murphy, a ninth grader. More than 80 items were auctioned. The Wilson students have been close to the ABC program because two of their teachers serve as "parents" to 10 of the ABC boys and girls. Miss Ann Lunde is student council advisor.

Alfonsi Infuriated by Democrat's Charges

MADISON (AP)—The Republicans' Assembly floor leader clashed Wednesday in indignation with a Democrat who accused the GOP of bowing to corporate and special interest pressure for easing insurance company taxes.

Assemblyman Paul Alfonsi said he was enraged by an accusation from Assemblyman Edward Nager, D-Madison, that Republicans were supporting the bill because the GOP "gets its funding from insurance companies and corporations who call the tune."

The bill, which the Republican-controlled Assembly approved 87-9 and sent to the Senate would exempt re-insurance policies from consideration during calculation of taxes paid by insurance companies on premiums.

Nager said the bill was being pushed by companies which want a tax loophole. The companies are threatening to move their offices to other states unless they get the tax break, he said.

Gives Warning
Alfonsi said he might have to make Nager resume his seat, and later told the Democrat not to "indict other people's motives or I'll carry out my previous threat."

"What about student demands when the so-called orators in here told us we shouldn't bend to demands?" Nager said.

One of the Democrats who spoke in favor of the bill was Assemblyman Norman Anderson of Madison, who said the bill doesn't necessarily involve a tax exemption.

It is, he said, a "different method of determining how the companies should be taxed." Existing tax laws, Anderson said, tend to discourage companies from re-insuring group policies.

The Alfonsi-Nager clash reflects complaints from the legislature's Democratic minority that Republicans, including Gov. Warren P. Knowles, are virtually ignoring corporate taxes during the current studies of plans for increasing sales and income taxes.

Locate Elsewhere
Knowles has said burdensome corporation taxes would only encourage industry and commerce to locate in some other state.

Nager said Republicans should not surrender to what he called the relocation threats being made by influential firms. The Assembly, in other action, took a step toward its anticipated vote today on a bill to let tenants take court action against landlords in cases of health code violations.

A similar proposal has died twice in previous legislative sessions.

Assemblymen also gave preliminary approval to a proposal for expanding the state's veterans program by repealing the limit of $1.5 million annually on veterans' loans.

Appleton High School-West Holds 65th Commencement

350 Members of Senior Class Will Receive Diplomas June 5

The 65th commencement exercise at Appleton High School-West has been scheduled for 8 p.m. June 5 in Seims Memorial Gym.

Sharing the speaker's stand will be two graduating seniors, Katherine Miller, daughter of class which requested the action.

Emmett Hoks, assistant principal, will announce the seniors

Kenneth Sager, vice president of the Appleton Board of Education, will be platform guest. The Rev. Henry Simon, by Sandy Barth, will play apsalter, Faith Lutheran Church, horn solo; and Wendy Mattison will give the invocation and the benediction.

A special diploma, will be presented by Milton Ness, coordinator of Appleton Technical Institute, to Mrs. Marie Roehl, Ziemann, secondary coordinator of an 84-year-old student who has attended the adult night school diplomas, as a result of a petition circulated by the senior class which requested the action.

The 350 members of the AHS-West senior class are:

An alumna and two students helping with the presentations are, from left, Georgia Wieseler, mistress of ceremonies; Deborah Geske, student speaker, and Miss Judy Moberg, last year's graduate and guest speaker. The program allows the girls to attend school part-time and get on-the-job training in the afternoons in order to prepare them for the world of work after graduation. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Soviet Launch 284th Unmanned Satellite

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today launched the 284th satellite in its unmanned Cosmos series. Tass reported. Soviet news agency said equipment aboard the space research vehicle was functioning normally but, as usual, did not announce what kind of research the satellite was performing.

Beaver Dam Youth Drowns in Rock River

WATERTOWN (AP) — Steve Bearder, 15, of Beaver Dam, a student at Northwestern College's prep school, drowned Wednesday while he and classmates swam across the Rock River. The victim's father, Edward Bearder, is a foreman at Kraft Foods Inc. in Beaver Dam.

4 Fox Cities Men Get Security Agent Licenses

MADISON — The State Department of Securities has announced that R. J. Bretl, Menasha, and D. E. Conner, V. C. Mueller, H. A. Evans, all of Appleton and all representing Homeco Securities, Inc., have been qualified and licensed as securities agents.

Referendum Plan Rejected

Menasha Officials Say No to Vote on Downtown Project

MENASHA — A suggestion to place the downtown redevelopment plan on an advisory referendum ballot was rejected in a sometimes heated debate among aldermen and other officials Wednesday.

Ald. Robert Winarski offered the suggestion. Ald. Sumner Parker was supported by others when he told Winarski "we have been elected to make some decisions for our constituents, and I believe that tossing the ball to our constituents is not living up to our responsibilities." Parker also argued that the issue is too complex to be able to make sure all voters in a referendum had all the information they would need to make the decision.

Though Winarski was unable to persuade the finance committee or planning commission, which were meeting jointly, to recommend a referendum, he pointed out that the public could call for one after the council votes if the plan is adopted.

Redevelopment Would Boost Menasha Taxes

MENASHA — The proposed downtown redevelopment project might mean annual property tax increases of 70 to 75 cents in taxes per $1,000 assessed valuation, the chairman of the common council finance committee has estimated.

Ald. Sumner Parker offered the calculation Wednesday night during a joint meeting of his committee and plans commissioners to discuss the redevelopment proposals.

Parker stressed that his estimates are rough at best, and he added they attempt to envision "the worst situation." They make no allowances, for instance, for growth in the amount of taxable property or for revenue from parking meters which developers have said could pay off a sizable portion of the $4 million cost of the city's share of the main phase of the project. Parker also said he was assuming a six-year period for the first phase, but it was likely a longer period would be required, giving the city that much longer to raise its share.

Burning Meat, Grass, Engine Bring Firemen

Fire that started when a fuel line broke caused considerable damage to a 1958 car owned by Walter Schewe, 822 W. Summer St.

Appleton firefighters were called to the 1400 block of N. Bennett Street at 5:40 a.m. today to find the engine compartment on fire.

At 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, firefighters were summoned to the John Reimer home, 2507 S. East St., when meat burned on top of a stove. A smoke ejector was used.

A grass fire along railroad tracks under the E. College Avenue bridge was extinguished about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday.

$30,000 Grant Given For Listing of Beetles

HONOLULU (AP) — Dr. J.L. Bressitt, chairman of entomology at Bishop Museum, has received a $30,000 federal grant to classify all the world's leaf-eating beetles.

"Researchers need to speak the same scientific language," he said.

Toll at 40 During Heat Wave in India

NEW DELHI (AP) — A heat wave sweeping northern India claimed two lives in Delhi Wednesday, bringing the toll during the last five days to 40. The mercury hovered around 14 degrees in several places.

'The Prisoner' Fine Rerun For Summer

BY TV SCOUT

7-8 — Channel 2 — If you missed 'The Prisoner' during the summer run last year, make a note to catch up on this puzzling and absorbing series. It stars Patrick McGonhan, who created the premise and directed and wrote several episodes of the raphy is superb, with much of the filming done at a Welsh vacation village. McGonhan's acting is perfection as he plays a secret agent who resigns his job, returns home planning a vacation, then is gassed. When he awakens, he is in a mysterious village where everyone is a number, the people act like automatons and subtle means are used to probe the mind. 8-9 (CBS)

6:30-7 — Channel 2 — Animal World travels to Kenya's Amboseli Game Reserve where the wild animals are slowly being decimated despite government efforts to help them. Bill Burrud is the host.

6:30-7:30 — Channel 5 — Daniel Boone returns Jimmy Dean as Josh in an amusing version of a story they have done before. Josh inherits land a slave, not just an ordinary slave but a household slave who has to teach Josh the finer points of being a master.

7-7:30 — Channel 11 — That Girl gets involved in an unusual kind of triangle when the neighbors, Ruth and Jerry, argue over sour cream on a baked potato and Ruth shuffles off to her Buffalo home. It becomes a matter of survival for that girl and her boyfriend to effect a reconciliation.

7:30-8:30 — Channel 5 — Ironside has a good detective yarn with Anne Baxter excellent

Straw Hat Theaters Ready for Summer

Peninsula Players Announce 35th Season; Theatre-on-Bay in New Marinette Playhouse

BY JINGO

Although the frost is still on the pumpkin throughout our non-tropical Valley, the theaters of the area are busily preparing for their summer production seasons.

Up at Fish Creek, the Peninsula Players have released the playbill for their 35th season in Tuesday through Saturday, and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday. The theater is dark on Monday.

Laying plans for its third summer season is the Theatre-on-the-Bay, on the Marinette County Campus of the University of Wisconsin. This non-profit company will be performing in the new, air-conditioned campus theater.

Four plays comprise the summer schedule; all will be directed by Herbert Williams. The first production, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, is scheduled June 28 through July 7. It will be followed by "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," by Tennessee Williams, July 12-21; "The Waltz of the Toreadors," by Jean Anouilh, July 26-Aug. 4, and "Gypsy," by Arthur Laurents, with music by Jule Styne and lyrics by Stephen Sondheim, Aug. 9-18. Curtain time for all performances is 8:15 p.m.

Reservations may be secured by writing to Theatre-on-the-Bay, Bay Shore Street, Marinette, Wis.

Jingo

the Theatre-in-a-Garden. The nine-week season will open Tuesday evening, July 1, and run through Aug. 31, with Charles Liskar returning as director.

Season tickets are now on sale. Prices and other information may be obtained by writing to the Peninsula Players, Fish Creek, Wis. 54212.

Opening the season, July 1-6, is a "generation gap" comedy, "What Did We Do Wrong?" by Henry Denker. Plays to follow are "Sound of Murder," July 8-13; "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," by Jay Allen, July 15-20; "The Chic Life," July 22-27; "Rosenkrantz and Guildenstern Are Dead," by Tom Stoppard, July 29-Aug. 3; "The Price," by Arthur Miller, Aug. 5-10; "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," by Robert Anderson, Aug. 12-17, and "The Fantasticks," by Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt, Aug. 19-31. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Inverted Stamp Costs $31,000

NEW YORK (AP) — A 1918 "upside-down" airmail stamp with an inverted airplane in the center sold for $31,000 Wednesday, twice what a collector paid for it in 1964.

Myron Kaller of Farmingdale, N.Y., bought the 24-cent stamp at an auction at H.R. Harmer Galleries in Manhattan. The two other inverted stamps, a 4-cent 1901 Pan American issue and a 30-cent 1869 issue brought $20,000.

'Random Picking' Adds New Challenge to Tick-Tack-Toe

BY CAPPY DICK

"Lucky Ticktacktoe" is a game you can win — if you're lucky. It embodies all the skill and foresight of regular ticktacktoe and has the added of three zeros or three Xs, thus winning the game. As in regular ticktacktoe, a row of three may be horizontal, vertical or diagonal. A player must try to prevent his opponent from completing a row, yet must strive to complete a row himself. This is where skill and foresight are involved. Because the squares must be drawn from the paper bag blindly, the factor of chance is also important.

Prepare 18 Squares

element of chance involved in drawing marked squares from a paper bag.

The equipment for the game is to be made by hand. As shown in figure 1 it consists of 18 squares of cardboard. These may be one and a half or two inches square, but all should be of one size. Mark nine of them with "O" and the remaining nine with "X" as in figure 1.

Put the 18 squares into a paper bag and mix them up. You are then ready to play. The players take turns reaching into the bag and removing one square at a time. The cardboard must be placed face up on the table (figure 2).

The goal of each player is to be the one who can place the square that will complete a row

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

WORDS OFTEN MISUSED: Do not say, "My daughter often says she wishes she was a man." Say, "wishes she WERE a man."

OFTEN MISPRONOUNCED: Afflatus. Pronounce a-flay-tuss, accent second syllable.

OFTEN MISSEPPLED: Devisable (capable of being contrived); observe the "able." Divisible (capable of being divided); "ible."

SYNONYMS: Fluctuate, oscillate, vacillate, undulate, vibrate, waver.

WORD STUDY: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Today's word: PERPETRATION: a doing, especially of something bad morally. "It's a rare man who stops short after the perpetration of his first crime."

Galaxy Collapses Cause 'Space Holes'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — There may be black holes in space resulting from the gravitational collapse of entire galaxies or clusters of stars, two physicists at the California Institute of Technology report.

James R. Ipser and Kip S. Thorne said Tuesday they believe this is the end point in the evolution of massive star clusters.

The gravitational collapse theory envisions galaxies falling in on themselves with their stars drawn closely together by gravitational pull so strong that light and radio waves can't escape.

Astros Notch 10th Straight Victory; Dodgers Triumph

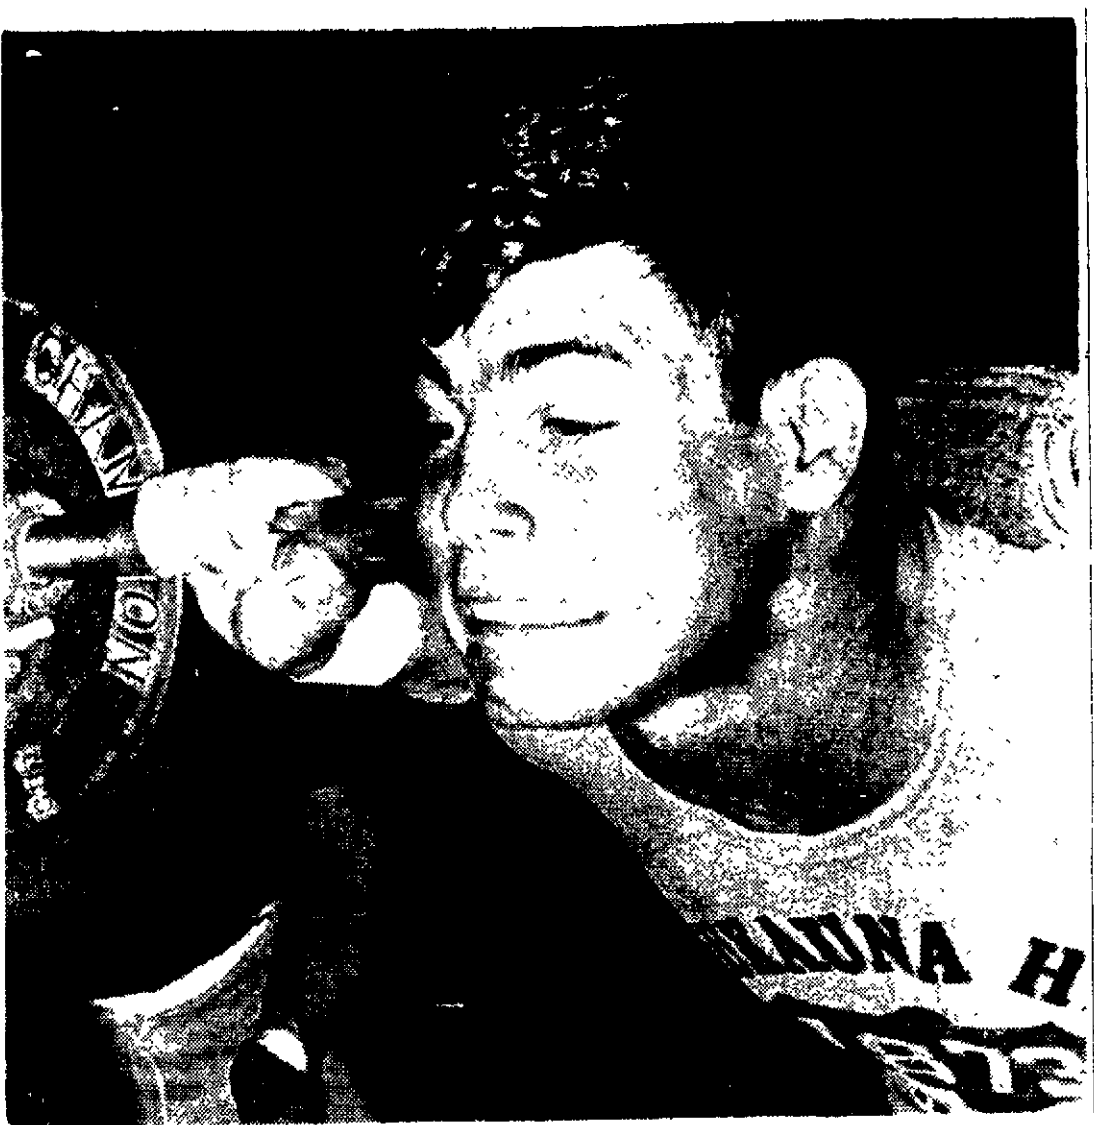

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

No matter how hard Jimmy Wynn hits and how fast the Houston Astros run, they can't seem to catch Lee May and the Cincinnati Reds, who stand one homer, one base and 1½ games ahead.

May got Cincinnati moving again Wednesday night with a record-tying two home runs and then Johnny Bench stole second and Tony Perez home on a delayed double steal in the eighth inning for the winning run in a 7-6 victory over Pittsburgh.

Close on their heels were Wynn and the red-hot Astros. Wynn's lone homer dropped him one behind May for the National League lead and the Astros only stole second and third on a double steal in the 10th.

No. 4 for Johnson Foxes Hand Decatur 8-3 ML Defeat

DECATUR, Ill. — Bart Johnson notched his fourth straight victory and hurled the Appleton Foxes to a 8-3 Midwest League win over Decatur here Wednesday night.

Johnson fanned 11 batters and blanked the Commodores through the first seven innings as the Foxes built up a 8-0 lead and coasted to their 15th win in 19 games.

The victory stretched the Foxes' league lead to 3½ games over idle Clinton.

Appleton slammed out 12 base hits off the slants of starter Jim Mazzoni of Decatur. Mazzoni was relieved by Al Cowgill who held the Foxes hitless for the

The fourth inning saw the bases and Joe Bowen drove a sacrifice fly for the fourth tally of the frame. When Yancey was safe on an error another run scored.

Redmon singled to load the bases and Joe Bowen drove a sacrifice fly for the fourth tally of the frame. When Yancey was safe on an error another run scored.

The two runs in the fifth for the Foxes scored when Arteaga tripled, Williams singled and two straight wild pitches allowed Williams to cross the plate.

Johnson gave up a single in the third inning and then held the Commodores hitless until the seventh. In the eighth inning, Decatur finally scored with a pair of singles and a walk loaded the bases with two out and Johnson uncorked a wild pitch.

Decatur added two more in the ninth when Jim Bosch doubled home a run and scored later on a sacrifice fly after getting to third on an infield out.

Arteaga was the hitting star for the Foxes with three for five. Johnson, Reid, Weatherly and Redmon each had two hits.

Foxes Meet Clinton Here Friday Night

The Midwest League leading Appleton Foxes return to Goodland field at 7:30 p.m. Friday to open their longest home stand of the season.

Clinton's Pilots, current runners-up to the Foxes, will provide the opposition the first three days. Clinton is an affiliate of the Seattle Pilots and is managed by Sibby Sisti, former major leaguer.

Saturday's game also starts at 7:30 p.m., while Sunday's is an afternoon (2 p.m.) attraction.

The Quad Cities Angels open a 3-game set Monday night, which has been designated as the first "Ladies' Night" (feminine fans are admitted for a 25-cent service charge) and "Family Bleacher Night" ($1 for the entire family).

The Foxes will close the home stand with games against Wisconsin Rapids Thursday and Friday nights.

last five innings. Cowgill had a little trouble with his control however and walked two, had three wild pitches and hit one batter.

Hit in Ribs

In the ninth inning, Cowgill hit Foxes' third baseman Hugh Yancey in the ribs with a pitch and when Yancey started for the mound, both benches emptied. The umpires quickly restored order before any punches could be thrown.

The Foxes scored one run in the first inning and then put the game away early by scoring five more in the fourth and a pair in the fifth.

In the first, Roger Reid singled and stole second. After one out Jim Redmon singled Reid home.

Farrell Glad He Lost an Argument

Ward's Homer Paces Chisox Victory

By BOB GREENE
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Kerby Farrell, first base coach for the Chicago White Sox, is happy he lost an argument with umpire Ed Runge Wednesday night.

Farrell thought Pete Ward's line shot to right field hit the foul line. From the press box, it appeared chalk flew into the ground.

But Runge pointed to a spot one inch on the foul side of the line and Farrell, at that point, was extremely unhappy.

Farrell's disposition changed rapidly, however, as Ward lined the ball into the right field bleachers with two men on base, breaking a 2-2 tie and sending New York Yankee pitcher Al Downing to his second loss of the season.

Chicago went on to win 7-6. "I knew it was foul," Ward said. "Runge called it right."

The Yankees didn't protest Runge's call, but rightfielder Bobby Murcer said he was ready to throw to third to hold Ward to a double. Ward's homer left no room for argument, clearing the fence by at least 25 feet.

"I thought the ball was fair," Farrell said. "But, the umpire was in a better position to call it. He showed me where it hit, just outside the line."

It was the third consecutive victory for the White Sox in Milwaukee County Stadium this season. And, in each of their victories, the Sox have scored seven runs.

Last season, Chicago won only one regular-season game at the stadium while losing eight.

Wednesday's crowd was disappointing with only 16,749 fans turning out despite temperatures in the 80s. In three games, the White Sox have drawn an average of 13,754 at Milwaukee. Last year, attendance here averaged 29,506.

Joe Horlen started for Chicago and was the winner, squaring his record at 4-4. He needed help, however, and Bob Lock-

Controversy Rages Hours Before '500' Race Time

Andretti Threatens to Withdraw Unless He Can Retain Radiator Installed After Qualification

By BLOYS BRITT
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — With the start of the 53rd Indianapolis 500 only hours away, controversy raged at the Speedway today over a rules interpretation that affects at least two of the top contenders.

Mario Andretti, who qualified his Brawner Hawk-Ford in the No. 2 spot in the 33-car line-up for Friday's 11 a.m. start, threatened to pull out of the race unless a decision affecting him is rescinded.

Andretti was ordered Wednesday by Chief Stewart Harlan Fenger to remove a special radiator that was installed on the car after it was qualified last weekend.

Fenger also ordered a new oil cooler removed from the Wynn's Mongoose-Offenhauser to be driven by veteran Texan Lloyd Ruby.

Fenger said the installations on the Andretti and Ruby cars violated a U.S. Auto Club rule that prohibits any change in the configuration of a car after it has been qualified.

Would be Permissible

A spokesman for the STP Corp., which sponsors Andretti's car, retorted that Fenger had told Andretti Tuesday addition of the radiator would be permissible.

The STP spokesman said Fenger changed his mind—after the crew had worked most of Tuesday night installing the device.

Andretti and the other drivers were to meet with Fenger today in the annual pre-race session at which rules for the race are laid down.

Most observers predicted that cooler heads would prevail and that Andretti would be in the race.

Ruby's crew removed the special oil cooler from the Texan's car after the final practice session Wednesday, but Andretti's new radiator, installed on the top of the car just behind the driver's head, was still on the machine Wednesday night.

Fenger admitted he gave Clint Brawner, Andretti's chief mechanic, permission to install the device. But he said he had to change the ruling after a meeting of USAC officials Tuesday night.

He said it was decided that use of the radiator would change the body configuration.

A. J. Foyt, whose Coyote-Ford has the pole spot for Friday's race, said he had asked Fenger last week for permission to install a similar radiator after his

Bosox Down KC, 4-3 Powell Extends Hit Streak to 17; Culp Earns 8th Victory

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ray Culp might think the American League expansion clubs can't be embarrassed, but he hasn't seen the egg on Joe Schultz' face.

Culp, Boston's winningest pitcher, struggled to a 4-3 victory over Kansas City Wednesday night and then congratulated both the Royals and Seattle Pilots for their poise under fire.

"I was in the National League when Houston and the New York Mets were new teams, and Kansas City and Seattle are twice the ball clubs they were," said the Red Sox' fireballer, who has won eight of 10 decisions. "Pitching against them, I can tell you they're really tough. They battle you. They don't embarrass themselves."

At about the same time in Seattle, the Pilots were being drubbed by the Baltimore Orioles 9-5—with the help of a highly embarrassing faux pas by Manager Schultz.

Schultz changed line-ups just before the game when the Orioles switched from right-hander Jim Palmer, their scheduled pitcher, to southpaw Dave McNally. But the Seattle skipper presented the wrong line-up cards to the umpires and opposing Manager Earl Weaver.

When Tommy Davis, batting out of turn as were five other Seattle starters, smacked a two-run double in the fifth inning, Weaver exercised his right of appeal. Davis was declared out, ending the inning and nullifying the runs, and McNally went on to nail his seventh victory without a loss.

"We made a lot of mistakes out there tonight, but I can't say much about that because I made the biggest one myself," Schultz said. "I had made out two sets of line-ups and I turned copies of the first set over to the Baltimore club and the umpire. But I used the second line-up card for our batting order."

"I know how Joe feels," Weaver commiserated. "I've done the same thing myself when I was managing Rochester. I learned then that if you start to make out a new lineup you immediately tear up the old one."

Nats Win

In other American League action, Detroit nipped Oakland 3-2; Washington edged Minnesota 4-3; California shaded Cleveland 5-4 and the Chicago White Sox squeezed past the New York Yankees 7-6.

Culp survived home runs by Pat Kelly and Mike Fiore in taming the Royals, who had won four in a row. His seven strikeouts gave him the AL lead with 78.

Rico Petrocelli led the Boston attack with his 14th homer, a bunt single and a double. He also set a club record of 46 consecutive errorless games at shortstop, breaking by one game the 1950 mark set by Vern Stephens.

The Orioles jumped to a 4-0 lead before Ray Oyler tagged McNally for a two-run homer, then scored five more runs on homers by Dave Johnson, Don Buford, Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson before Schultz' blunder snagged the Pilots' hopes for a comeback in the fifth.

Sixth Homer

Powell extended his hitting streak to 17 games with a first inning single before slamming his sixth homer. McNally also was rocked for a homer by Jerry McNertney before giving way to reliever Eddie Watt in the seventh.

Pitcher Earl Wilson's run-scoring single in the seventh carried the Tigers past Oakland for their eighth victory in the last 10 games. The A's have lost seven of their last eight.

Singles by Jim Northrup, Bill Freehan and Wilson off John "Blue Moon" Odom gave the Tigers a 3-1 lead and offset Rick

Grand Jury Investigation Goes On in Boxing Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — Nino Benvenuti, boxing's middleweight champion, and Dick Tiger, the man who upset him earlier this week, have been excused from further testimony, but a grand jury investigation of boxing goes on.

Both Benvenuti and Tiger were questioned Wednesday in the office of District Attorney Frank Hogan, then appeared before a New York County grand jury.

No one was saying exactly what Hogan's office and the grand jury are investigating, but it apparently concerns Mafia influence in boxing.

"I'm not going to describe the investigation. I'll not characterize it in any way," said Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Scotti, head of the Rackets Bureau.

No Return

Scotti, however, said that neither Benvenuti nor Tiger was asked to sign waivers of immunity or to return for further testimony.

After Benvenuti emerged from the grand jury room and

'68 Winner Popular Bobby Unser Hero of Kids at Indianapolis

By ERIC PREWITT
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Bobby Unser, the defending champion of the Indianapolis 500, is the Babe Ruth of auto racing when it comes to getting along with children.

The kids love him and he loves them. He's recognized by a lot more young visitors to the Indianapolis Motor Speedway since his 1968 success, and it's okay with him.

On Tuesday, three days before the race, he cheerfully posed with three children while their father took snapshots. He signed a baseball—a baseball—for a little boy and asked, "Is that all?"

Then he signed a Speedway souvenir program. The 35-year-old but boyish looking Unser, who has four children of his own, hopes he always has time to sign autographs.

Many of today's successful drivers, such as A. J. Foyt and Parnelli Jones, own racing cars, but the owner-driver role doesn't appeal to Unser.

He has been driving here for several years in cars owned by Bob Wilke of Milwaukee, Wis.

"I've had a few chances at ownership deals the past few years, but those guys with their own cars stay too busy. I just want to keep on enjoying racing as long as I can," he said.

Shawano Edges Bonduel, 5 to 4

Conradt's Double Keys 5-Run Rally In District Finale

SHAWANO — A bases-loaded double by Jeff Conradt led Shawano to a 5-run rally in the sixth inning as the Indians beat Bonduel, 5-4, for the Shawano District Baseball title here Wednesday night.

The Bears scored first in the initial inning on a solo home run by Ken Boettcher. Bonduel added two more runs in the fourth on two hits, two walks, and an error.

Shawano used four hits, two errors, and a walk in the sixth to take a 5-3 lead. Bonduel scored another run in the seventh.

Stu Druckrey and Norman Waukau combined to hurl the victory. Druckrey aided his own cause with three hits. Conradt had two hits.

Cubs Stave Off Giant Rally To Win, 9-8

fore Doug Rader followed with his second straight game-winning hit as Houston edged Philadelphia 7-6.

Houston's victory was its 10th in a row, longest winning streak in the major leagues this season, but it didn't get the fifth place Astros any closer than 1½ games behind fourth place Cincinnati in the West Division as the Reds won the sixth consecutive game.

12th in Row
At the same time, Montreal dropped farther behind everyone when Los Angeles handed the Expos their 12th successive defeat, 6-0.

In other games, the New York Mets ended a five-game losing streak with a 1-0 victory over San Diego in 11 innings. St. Louis bounced Atlanta 6-2 and, in the afternoon, the Chicago Cubs tripped San Francisco 9-8 helped by Randy Hundley's grand slam homer.

May, who hit two homers Saturday night and two more Sunday before two open days, clubbed a solo shot in the fourth inning against the Pirates and added his 14th with a man on in the sixth for a 6-4 lead, making him only the fifth man in history to hit six in three consecutive games.

Pittsburgh tied the game with runs in the seventh and eighth, but Perez opened the Cincinnati eighth with a single. May lined out, but Benct singled Perez to third and then the two pulled off their grand theft.

No Trick
"There was no trick there," said Manager Dave Bristol. "We called a delayed double steal and it worked. You got to gamble sometimes."

Wynn put the Astros ahead 4-3 in the fifth with his 13th homer, but Johnny Callison's homer in the seventh and Richie Allen's two-run shot in the ninth pulled the Phillies even 6-6.

In the 10th, Joe Morgan walked, Wynn sacrificed and Norm Miller was walked intentionally before Morgan and Miller pulled their double steal. Another intentional walk to Denis Menke before Rader, who hit a grand slam in the ninth to beat the Phillies Tuesday night, rapped his hit, giving the Astros their 19th victory in 23 starts in May.

Don Sutton, 6-4, breezed past Montreal with a five-hitver and Andy Kosco chipped in with a homer and a single for two Los Angeles runs.

Unearned Run
Bud Harrelson followed an intentional walk with one out, bases loaded single for an unearned run that gave the Mets their victory.

Jerry Koosman pitched the first 10 innings for the Mets, allowing only four hits and striking out 15, a club record and high in the league this season. Clay Kirby dued him for nine innings, scattering seven hits.

Stev Carlton, 5-4, pitched a four-hitter for St. Louis and drove in two runs, while teammate Lou Brock had four of the Cardinals' 15 hits.

Hundley, who had three hits, scored two runs and drove in five, capped a seven-run second inning with his blast as the Cubs took an 8-0 lead. Winner Ken Opening round honors went to Terry McCarty who shot a sub-par round of 34.

E-Z Glide, Giddings and Lewis and Van Abel's all post 14-6 wins to share the lead in the Acushnet Division. Handifax, with 15 points, leads the First Flight Division.

Win Shot-Gun Golf Meet at Riverview

Bud Stach, Paul Tepper, Vince Jones and Art Miller won the best-ball four some Shot-gun Golf Tournament at the Riverview Country Club recently. They produced a net score of 59. Finishing second, at 60, were Ed Pfefferle, M. Olson, Harley Splitt and Otto Bytof.

Comets Score 12-4 Win Over Plainfield

WAUPACA — Breaking open in a close game with eight runs in the last two innings, the Waupaca High School baseball team took the championship of the Plainfield district tournament by scoring a 12-4 win over Plainfield Wednesday.

The Comets now have a 8-6 record and will meet Marion in their next contest.

Waupaca had a slim 4-3 lead going into the top of the sixth when the first five runners reach base and the Comets eventually scored four runs to move out in front. Plainfield scored once in the last of the sixth to make the score 8-4, but the Comets wrapped it up with four more in the seventh.

Big blow of the seventh inning was a 3-run homer by Bob Solberg who also had a double Holtzman, 8-1, doubled in the decisive run in the fifth, but needed relief help and a ninth-inning rally by Don Kessinger to cut down Jack Hiatt at the plate for the last out of the game.

MARION — Five first-inning runs proved all Marion needed to win the Marion District Baseball tournament title. The Mustangs tripped Manawa, 5-3, Wednesday.

After Steve Kristof and Dan Brandenburg singled, winning pitcher John Braun was hit by a pitch to load the bases in the bottom of the first inning. Manawa's Jim Hass walked the next three batters forcing three runners across the plate.

A fielder's choice and an error brought the other two runs home.

Manawa scored in the top half of the initial frame as Randy Brown's single sent a runner home. The Wolves added two more runs in the fifth when Bob Roloff singled, Welyn Walker doubled and Jim Hass singled in

"Fisherman's Luck" comes in a 34-inch 9½ horsepower package

It's called Sportwin. And it's designed, by Evinrude, to give the man who owns it more than his fair share of the special advantages that other, less fortunate fishermen call "Fisherman's Luck". Its low, hide-away shape gives him more chances to be lucky by giving him more fishing space to be lucky in. The Sportwin owner isn't limited to fishing around the motor. He can fish all around the stern of the boat. Just as though the motor weren't there.

Sportwin's precise control puts the fisherman in the best fishing position and keeps him there. Lets him hold the right casting distance. Makes it easy to find, and return to, the one trolling speed that really catches fish. Its 20 mph speed provides more fishing time in the best fishing spots. Gets him there sooner. Lets him move on when the fish do. Its dual-purpose lower unit opens up more fishing area. Lets the fisherman go "way back in" — gives him 8 tilt-out positions for running in weeds and shoal water — without making him run that way when he isn't. Sportwin fishing "extras" make it easy to be lucky. Stalking quiet. Storm-tight powerhoods. Gearshift. Thermostat. Complete salt water corrosion protection (you don't even need to flush it). Shock-mounted propeller. Rugged lower unit. It even has a built-in fuel gauge in the long range fuel tank. Smart fishermen have all the luck.

Planner Raps County Zoning

COG Official Says Ordinance Lacks Comprehensive Basis

A regional planner said Monday he doesn't think too much of the Outagamie County zoning ordinance, remarking it does not take in the best interests of planning.

The observation of Arno Haering, of the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), was made during a meeting of the Appleton Plan Commission.

The commission was discussing the rezoning of property which had been annexed into the city from a nearby town. The previous zoning (commercial) on the land had been designated under the county ordinance.

Ald. John Steidl (18th) had said the city commission should not deprive people with the type of zoning they had prior to coming into the city with their property.

City Laws

Under the city law, property annexed automatically reverts back to single family until it is rezoned to another category in keeping supposedly with the citywide comprehensive plan.

"Much of it is arbitrary zoning," Haering said of the county ordinance which governs towns that do not adopt their own zoning ordinances.

Haering said there is a pattern in which courts have been ruling against countywide zoning ordinances, declaring for the most part, they are not well-founded or based on a comprehensive plan.

The COG official noted Appleton had a complete comprehensive plan.

And he indicated officials of the Town of Grand Chute were concerned about the county zoning ordinance and wanted to prepare a separate comprehensive plan for the town's development.

Wittenberg Pastor To Deliver Address On Memorial Day

WITTENBERG — The Rev. Richard Borchers, pastor of the St. Pauls Lutheran Church, will present the 11 a.m. Memorial Day address at the Forest Home Cemetery.

The program will open with a selection by the high school band, directed by Robert Otfedahl, and vocal selections will be sung by the Tri-Ms, directed by Gordon Cowles.

In case of rain, the program will be in the high school gym.

Don't Remodel Jail, County Advised

Outagamie County should forget about remodeling its present jail facilities because it would be "almost impossible or inadvisable" from a cost standpoint, a State Division of Corrections official said Tuesday night.

The warning came from Vern Verhulst, state detention supervisor, who met with the county board public property and insurance committee as it moves on plans to provide improved jail facilities.

The State Department of Health and Social Services has indicated it will close present facilities June 21 unless definite action toward making improvements can be shown. Verhulst hinted there would be no more extensions.

Judge Critical of Supreme Court

'We Need Ethics, Not Sociology'

Post-Crescent Staff Correspondence

MADISON — A Circuit Court Judge said Tuesday he hopes newly-appointed Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren Burger persuades his colleagues to "throw away their sociology books and buy a 10-cent copy of Judicial Ethics."

Then, said Judge Richard W. Orton, Lancaster, "we'll be reading decisions which will balance the scale of rights of society on one hand, and the accused on the other."

Orton, speaking to delegates at the Attorney General's Conference on Law Enforcement, charged that the "repeated 5 to 4 decisions" by the U.S. Supreme Court have been with almost total disregard for the rights of society and the victims of crimes.

The decisions, Orton held, have "not produced one damn ounce of better or fairer justice," but have, instead, resulted in a slowing-down of the criminal judicial process at a time when it needs speeding up.

"The trial of a criminal case," Orton said, "is no longer a search for the truth... but is a long search for a way to free the accused through a mistake made by the district attorney or the investigating officer."

The former Grant Court district attorney, who received a standing ovation, told delegates, "The wheels of justice always ground slowly; today, they have ground nearly to a halt."

Treatment Helps Cut Pollution

BRILLION — Improvement of sewage treatment facilities moved ahead here this week when the city council approved purchase of a 1,000-gallon-per-minute chlorinating unit for effluent.

Purchase of the estimated $18,000 apparatus is necessary to comply with Department of Natural Resource requirements to deter water pollution. The state order was issued after an agreement last year by Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan and Indiana officials to cooperate in fighting pollution of Lake Michigan.

Stipulations to protect and improve the quality of waters within the Lake Michigan Drainage Basin were outlined to area public works men nearly a year ago at Sturgeon Bay. Since that time this city has been moving toward complete compliance to the state order.

In other action 380-acre Town of Brillion parcel of land valued at $10,000 was annexed to the city, according to a resolution approved Monday by the council. The area will become city property after the resolution is published in the official paper June 4. Included in the annexation are Deer Run Golf Course and 30 home properties.

Plat Approval

Charles Green Construction, Appleton, was apparent low bidder on sewer and water installations in the Lena Mack subdivision. Their $17,555 bid was low among five and $26,510 was highest. Contracts are expected to be awarded soon after state approval of the final plat.

Specifications for a storm sewer from Center Street to Columbus near the community recreation building will be drawn by the city's engineering firm, McMahon and Associates, Menasha. Bids will be opened June 23, the council decided.

The council set a June 5 special session to discuss a Brillion Housing Authority request to establish low rent housing units for low income families. Federal funds through the Department of Housing and Urban Development are available for the structures.

Street Extensions

The location of the extensions of Glenview Avenue and Tesch Street within the newly annexed area will be determined by future planning commission recommendations, the council told Larry Pagel, who owns property there. Pagel, who is interested in plotting his land, was seeking the city's plan concerning street access in the area.

Permission was granted to Dallas Wenzel, Noel Zander, Norbert O'Connor, Oscar Bratz and Don Wiser to break out curbs for sump pump pipes.

The Brillion Athletic Association was granted five one-day beer licenses for their summer baseball games.

Use of the Giese parking lot and the city hall lot for mechanical rides and concession stands during June 13 and 14 Good Neighbor Days was approved.

Some 70 youngsters will visit Wisconsin Dells next week on the annual safety patrol outing. Police Chief Rueben Huntington said. The group has been commended for an accident-free year.

Trespassers on the lime kiln swimming pool and beach will be prosecuted, Huntington reported. The area is not open to the public until the official pool opening in several weeks, and then only during stipulated hours. Violators will be fined he said.

Judge to Speak At Shiocton's Memorial Rites

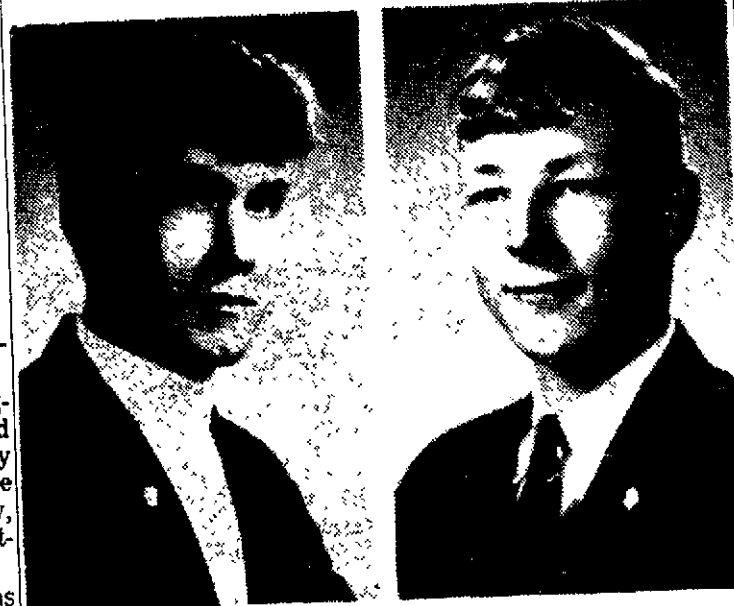

SHIOCTON — Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer will speak at Memorial Day observances, conducted here by the American Legion post and auxiliary.

The program, which starts at 10:30 a.m., will be at the Shiocton-Bovina, St. Denis Catholic cemeteries. Participating in the program will be the high school band, Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, the Legion post and auxiliary, junior auxiliary and JoAnn Ronk, poppy princess.

Following the services a wreath will be placed on the water of the Wolf River at the landing in front of the Legion clubhouse.

Ronald Conradt, left, and Robert Tennie have been named valedictorian and salutatorian respectively of the graduating class at Shiocton High School.

Construction Of Gimbels Starts in July

Construction of the multi-million dollar Gimbels Department Store in downtown Appleton is expected to begin sometime in July.

There has been no delay in the project, which will take up about two-thirds of a city block bounded by E. College Avenue, Morrison and Washington streets and the Conway Hotel, according to a Gimbels spokesman.

He explained the firm is involved in major expansion programs and as a result the plans for the new Appleton store — the first in the Fox Valley or northern Wisconsin — are being rushed to completion.

"We will be hiring bids soon for all the construction work," a Gimbels official said.

"The actual working plans are well on the way, and two teams of designers in New York have completed the exterior plans for the store," he added.

It was estimated it will take at least 18 months to complete construction and have the store in operation.

The Appleton developer who put together the site for the three - floor store, including a full - basement level, said all buildings have been razed and the site is now cleared.

Association Elects Officers Slate for '69-70 in Brillion

BRILLION — Richard Edwards, English and social studies instructor, has been elected president of the Brillion Education Association for the 1969-70 year.

Other new officers are Mrs. Ken Konop, president-elect; Ken Konop vice president; Mrs. Merrill Vanderhoof, secretary; and Mrs. Richard Van Dyke, treasurer.

The group's annual $150 scholarship will be presented to a graduate entering the field of education. The recipient, chosen from the top three academic students planning an education career, will be named at Thursday's high school commencement exercises.

Wisconsin Education Association memberships will be dependent on local association memberships by 1970-71 school year, members learned.

Advisory Committee Plans

New London Group Seeks Industrial Park, Recreation Director

NEW LONDON — Industrial improvements could be managed by a city recreational director and increased representation were discussed Monday by the citizen's advisory committee.

A need for a good industrial park in the city was noted by several committee members. They pointed out that industry was a means of increasing the tax base and worth an investment as it would take some of the fiscal responsibility off residential taxpayers.

The discussion centered around the means by which an industrial park and facility improvements could be managed. A report on a study to be conducted by the committee will be made at the June 30 meeting.

A committee headed by Duane Brown will submit its recommendations and study on a proposed site for a fire station to the public property committee, and the police and fire commission.

Action will be urged on creating a city recreational director. The advisory committee's park and recreation committee will bring the matter to the attention of the city council committee.

In discussing the need for a recreational director and expanded city recreation program, it was pointed out that city recreation is now limited to the swimming pool, while private organizations sponsor other activities during the summer.

It was suggested that a city recreation director could organize a year around program in conjunction with the school district.

Letters will be sent to all service, fraternal and civic organizations again to urge them to name representatives to the advisory committee.

FHA Officers Elected at Amherst High

AMHERST — Gail Onan has been elected president of the high school chapter of the Future Homemakers of America for next year.

Other officers are Judy Tetzloff, vice president; Christine Fischer, secretary; Jean Packer, treasurer; Lois Ristow, parliamentarian; Barbara Trzebiatowski, reporter, and Judy Packer, historian.

Delegates to attend the state convention next month at Green Lake are Terri Yonkers, state vice president; Miss Tetzloff, Miss Trzebiatowski, Jean Packer and Miss Onan. Judy Packer is an alternate.

Crime News Reporting - Good or Bad?

'Press Needs Watching... So Do Police'

By BILL KNUTSON

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The press and law enforcement had a three-hour go at each other here Monday over the reporting of crime news.

The lively and often heated exchange involving five newsmen and 200 lawmen occurred during a question and answer period that followed a panel discussion on "The Role of the Press and Administration of Justice."

The panel was part of a two-day Attorney General's Conference on Law Enforcement.

Panelists included Arville Schaleben, associate editor of the Milwaukee Journal; Carl Eifert, city editor, The Paper, Oshkosh; Lawrence Fitzpatrick, executive editor, The Wisconsin State Journal, Madison; Miles McMillin, executive publisher, The Capitol Times, Madison; and Jay G. Sykes, a former Milwaukee Journal reporter and now professor of journalism at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Schaleben said the press needs watching but so do the police.

Fitzpatrick told lawmen that the public needs them but they also need the public. "The success or failure of any law enforcement agency can be measured by its good or bad relationship with and support and aid of the public, which the news media represents."

"Newspapers are on your side," Fitzpatrick told lawmen. "Like you, we are interested in law and order with justice."

Major friction between reporters and police, Fitzpatrick added, results "when someone tries to hide something — withhold legitimate information from the press and public."

Primary Right

Newsmen and newspaper coverage of crimes hinders investigations, loses cases for prosecutors and sometimes triggers violence, some law enforcement officials argued.

Newsmen replied there must be a free flow of vital information.

Milwaukee Dist. Atty. E. Michael McCann said he recognized that while the free press is a primary right, publicity when an investigation is pending can be damaging both to the defendant and administration of justice.

"I feel that it is best to have lawmen give a 'no comment' answer to a newsman that put out information that is speculation," he said.

Newsmen said that the subject of withholding investigation reports is one of the problems facing them.

The mood changed when McMillin addressed delegates and said that since the assassination of President Kennedy, there has been a "hysteria" to clamp crime news restrictions on the press.

"A better job of law enforcement is being done by the press than by law enforcement officials," in some instances, McMillin charged. He cited the exposure of the press of the activities of former Supreme Court Justice Abe Forties, Connecticut Sen.

Thomas Dodd, and New York Rep. Adam Clayton Powell.

McMillin stepped on sore toes when he also cited the exposure of the recent stag party in Sauk County allegedly attended by law enforcement officials.

McMillin cautioned lawmen not to try to tell the press how to run its affairs. "If you're going to try to inhibit newspaper freedom, you're going to make your job that much tougher," McMillin said.

The first round of retaliation came from McCann, who said "television cameras as frequently trigger violence as record it."

McCann termed the enactment of police - courts-press codes relating to the reporting of crime news "almost a waste of time."

Sykes countered that he felt such guidelines would be helpful, to which McMillin replied that Sykes, a law school graduate, was "vaccinated with a legal needle."

McMillin and Fitzpatrick argued over whose paper has

Wrongs Balanced
Schaleben said he conceded wrongs that resulted from impartial reporting but he said the wrongs were balanced by wrongs resulting from no reports by law, in certain cases.

Schaleben said proposed crime and court news guidelines are intended to create a recognition or attitude on the part of the press that publicity can have a great effect on law enforcement and in turn the press must know how to handle that publicity.

The panel found support from Circuit Court Judge Richard Orton, Lancaster, who said "the secrecy method is worse than the truth in some instances."

He said the press must be cautious in two areas concerning a defendant in a criminal case.

"The area of the confession and that of his pre-trial criminal record. These two things can murder the accused," Orton said.

Monday's homer in the bottom of the seventh.
Frank Howard drilled a run-scoring single with two out in the ninth to win for Washington against the Twins. Minnesota had tied it 3-3 on Bob Allison's two-run double in the sixth.
The Twins' Rod Carew had two hits in three trips to the plate, boosting his major league high batting average to .400.
Second Straight
Jay Johnstone blooped a sin-gle to center with two out in the ninth, scoring Aurelio Rodriguez to give California its second straight victory under new skip-er Lelty Phillips. The Angels came from behind to tie the game in the eighth when Rick Reichardt singled and scored from first on Bubba Morton's double.
Pete Ward's fifth inning hom-er, a three-run shot off Al Downing, broke a 2-2 tie and propelled the White Sox to their third victory in three games at Milwaukee this year.
Chicago almost blew a 7-2 lead. Frank Fernandez homered for the Yanks with one on in the eighth and they scored twice in the ninth before Wilbur Wood saved the victory for starter Joe Horlen.

Plans Announced To Build New Service Station

Plans for constructing a new service station at the northeast corner of Meade Street and Northland Avenue were an-nounced this week by the Amer-ican Oil Company.
Oil company officials had petitioned the city plan commis-sion to rezone the tract of land from planned commercial to a local commercial district.
The commission acted favor-ably on the request and for-warded its recommendation to the city council to schedule a public hearing and take final action.
The station, a company spokesman said, will be of colonial-type design.
The firm also has plans for starting a second new station in another part of the city, it was learned.

County Park Policy Studied By Committee

Statement Aims To Give Continuity To Outagamie Plan

Outagamie County Board park committeemen began wading through a proposed county park policy statement Wednesday aimed at guaranteeing continuity in the county park program.

The policy statement, prepared by the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission, would give future park committeemen a chance to see the organized goals and guidelines of the county park program, Charles Hervey Jr., Northeastern's acting executive director, said.

The policy, which would be adopted and enforced by the county board, also calls for engaging citizen groups such as Lions and Kiwanis clubs to work on subcommittees developing parks and recreation sites.

Club Backing

"With these people working with you, you'll have hundreds of people backing you immediately when you ask the county board for funding," Hervey said.

Supv. G. Allen Bubolz, Appleton, committee chairman, called the policy statement one of the committee's key projects because the present and future committees need direction.

He noted that before the 1967 overall park plan was developed, there was none for the county. The proposed policy would update and add detail to that plan.

Supv. Charles Wussow, Appleton, questioned the amount of detail in the policy statement. "We're taking an inventory of just about every blade of grass in the county," he said.

Supv. Harold Miller, Appleton, contended the plan would protect against undesirable land use and "safeguard the public" against undesirable developments.

The policy statement includes a section on zoning for park and recreation lands, and calls for the park committee to work with the zoning committee on this portion.

The park committee met at noon in Seymour with city officials to confer on the man-made lake at Plamann Park, Seymour, which has had a similar swimming lake for three years, should be able to provide much valuable information, the committee felt.

Bear Creek Dinner

BEAR CREEK — The Bear Creek Memorial Day dinner, set for 11:30 a.m., will be at the Bear Creek High School, not Clintonville High, as erroneously listed in Wednesday's Post-Crescent.

Marion High School musicians were recently awarded for achievements during the past year. Darhl Ruehmeling, second from left, and Mary Uecker, third, were presented the Rotary Club Music award and the John Phillip Sousa award respectively. Rita Anderson, left, music instructor, presented the Rotary award and Larry Schuster, band instructor, presented the Sousa award.

'Explosion' Hits Home

Chilton's Schools Already Squeezed; It Will Get Worse

CHILTON — Like almost every other community in the nation, this city has reached a point of "explosion" in school population. During the past 10 years the district's student census has more than doubled.

With no room to expand, vocational facilities in the high school are inadequate, and at the present time, more emphasis is being placed on technical and vocational training, school authorities claim.

Sixty per cent of all high school graduates need to seek some type of technical or vocational training, according to authorities. The background in these fields — if they are to be solidly founded — must come from the secondary schools.

In many instances, a good foundation will mean only one year at a technical school after high school to bring a young adult near the wage scale of the beginning professional man.

Many Spaces Lacking
It is deemed only a matter of time before rooms must be provided for special education services for the mentally retarded. At the present, classes are conducted in rented rooms in the New Holstein Public School. New Holstein's own growth will undoubtedly make it impossible for that city to lease out these rooms much longer.

There is no space for business machines in the business education department. In fact, a duplicator is presently housed in the laundry. Audio-aids must be held to a minimum in the foreign language department, because of insufficient room.

There is an apparent need for more facilities in the agricultural shop, but there is no room to house them.

The guidance quarters are considered too small. The counselors lack adequate meeting, filing and display space for the materials with which they are working, school officials say.

Teachers Shy Away
At present, the elementary rooms are housing 36 children in space signed for 25; kindergarten rooms have 35 to 40 young students in a 25-child-area unit.

In describing the situation, Gordon says that recruitment of teachers is extremely difficult because of the "jammed" condition.

The parochial schools will certainly add 155 freshmen to the school three years from now, authorities said.

Meanwhile, both public and parochial schools in the area are attempting to "hold-the-line." Public school is leasing classrooms from St. Mary School for the lower elementary grades, while the seventh and eighth grades from St. Augustine, St. Charles and St. Mary's have been absorbed by the public school.

Parochial school lay-boards, working side by side with public school officials are attempting to keep the first through sixth grades intact. In the up-coming school year, Chilton's two Catholic schools together with St. Charles, Charlesburg, are planning a merger in the Green Bay diocese. If the merger works, it will give public school officials a little more time to deliberate the question of "what shall be done?" If it does not succeed, the need for a building program is almost immediately mandatory, authorities said.

Architect At Work
Other schools in the area which may also be affected by the increasing costs and lack of teachers are Holy Trinity at Jericho and Trinity Lutheran, rural Hilbert. Each of these schools would contribute some extra students to the Chilton systems should they close.

During the past year, the school board has spent many hours working on the problem. The board brought the situation to the attention of the district electors in two special meetings last spring.

At that time voters authorized the purchase of a site for future school expansions. Subsequently, the board employed a southern Wisconsin architectural firm which is affiliated with the American Institute of Architects, to advise and plan a building program. Consultants of the State Department of Public Instruction and the faculty in the public schools have been utilized in working out possible solutions of both the immediate and long-range district needs. A municipal finance consulting firm has also been contacted for advice.

Life saving will be held between 7 and 9 p.m., and adult classes from 7 to 8 p.m. each Wednesday beginning June 25.

Children must be entering second grade to be eligible for the beginners' classes. Team competition, starting its fourth year, will feature youths from 9 to 18 years of age, and it has been announced that boys and girls are needed for the swimming and diving teams. Practice is daily from 11 a.m. to noon.

Policeman, Two Girls

Three Recognized for 'Life-Saving' Rescues

An Appleton policeman and two young girls were presented with awards Tuesday night from the Wisconsin Professional Policemen's Association.

Patrolman Darrell R. Berglund, 34, 1727 N. Clark St., was given a certificate of merit for saving the life of a 2½-year-old boy on Dec. 27.

Dawn Morey, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale P. Morey, 1106 W. Glendale Ave., and Sandra Rucks, 14, 2401 S. Jefferson St., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Rucks, were given honorable mention youth awards. The three awards were made by Sgt. Earl W. Jackson of the Appleton Police Department, secretary of the state association. The awards program followed a banquet at the Columbus Club.

Berglund, a policeman since October, 1965, was credited with saving the life of Charles Laughter, 2027 N. Nicholas St., who was choking on a piece of food at his home Dec. 27.

When Berglund arrived at the home in response to a rescue squad call from the boy's mother, the tot had stopped breathing. Berglund revived the boy with mouth to mouth resuscitation after removing the lodged food. The boy then was taken to a hospital by the fire department rescue squad.

Miss Morey was cited for the "calmness and clear thinking" she displayed when she discovered her two-year-old brother, Dane Paul, lying under water in a small, back-yard swimming pool last July 23.

Dawn pulled her brother from the pool and summoned her father, who revived the boy with mouth to mouth resuscitation. The boy had stopped breathing. The boy was taken to a hospital by the fire department.

Clear Thinking
The calmness and clear thinking such as was displayed by yourself is truly the foundation of our wholesome youth and a wholesome future community," the police association letter to Miss Morey stated.

Miss Rucks was cited for her quick thinking in getting three small children out of a burning house last Dec. 9.

She was babysitting at the Duane Foth home, 314 E. Wilson Ave., when she discovered a fire in the living room. Miss Rucks rushed the children, ages 4, 6, and 7, out of the house and summoned the fire department.

Bear Creek School District Officially Joins Clintonville

Members of Both Boards Meet Tuesday as Ordered By State Supreme Court

CLINTONVILLE — A new era in education began here Tuesday as the Bear Creek School District officially joined to the Clintonville School District.

Members of the former board of education of Bear Creek, officially dissolved and attached to Clintonville Monday, as ordered by the State Supreme Court, at the Clintonville board meeting to make some decisions about issues which now will concern their youths.

Bear Creek school bills were discussed and it was voted to pay all emergency bills approved by the Bear Creek board. The checks will be drawn from the account at the Bear Creek station of the Marion State Bank, which will become the depository for the Clintonville district.

Gene Knox, auditor for the Clintonville schools, was to start auditing the Bear Creek books Wednesday.

Herb Poppe, president of the Bear Creek Board, was named chairman for a committee to meet with members of the different classes and organizations at the Bear Creek high school to decide what and how the money in their accounts would be handled.

Committee Set Up
Kindergarten through sixth grade classes will be at Bear Creek, starting with the 1969-70 school term. Students in junior and senior high classes will attend Clintonville schools.

Raises for the Clintonville principals and superintendent were approved.

Principals Rey Laske, junior high, and Burr Tolles, senior high, were given $1,200 raises for 1969-70 school year. Supt. K. O. Rawson was given a $1,500 annual raise. He is retiring on his 65th birthday in September.

Merit System
The board also tentatively approved the merit system of conduct proposal of high school's student council with the delineation of the privilege stating: "May use his auto with parents' and office's consent." Final approval will be to the superintendent.

Prior to this, William Sparks, president of the student council, and Lana Taylor, representing the junior class, explained the proposal, copies of which had been furnished the board members previously. Principal Tolles was also present to answer questions of the board.

Miss Taylor reported that 20 schools had been contacted, about a merit system and replies had been received from six of them. Four reported they had such a system and the other two reported they were considering a merit system.

In its proposal, the council stated, "A merit system is a plan whereby good school 'citizens' are granted the privilege of free choice of activities at any time when they are not specifically assigned to a classroom situation or special assembly."

"By being on the merit list, it

Appleton May Replace Oneida Street Bridge

BY RICHARD JACOBSEN Post-Crescent Staff Writer

It appears Appleton will be faced with major repair work or possibly the replacement of the entire 133-foot span of the S. Oneida Street bridge.

Although the future of the 40-year-old bridge depends on recommendations by the state, further rusting and rotting underneath the spans was observed during an inspection tour late Wednesday.

Bridge engineers with the Division of Highways, State Department of Transportation, assessed damage to the bridge deck on the west side of the bridge, and, after the water was lowered about three inches from its normal height of 14 feet, closely inspected the entire section in a police department boat.

A state inspector at the site would not make an on-the-spot judgment. However, unofficially, those inspecting the bridge hinted it would be advantageous for the city to replace the entire 133-foot span.

Several Inspectors

On hand for the inspection were James Pautzke, state inspector, Madison; Frank Keuler, Appleton director of public works; Donald Bengs, assistant public works director; Donald Spielbauer, city street foreman; Kenneth Queller, Fox Paper Corporation dam tender; and Lewis Fox, of the Green Bay office, State Division of Highways.

Last Thursday, the police department was notified that the bridge deck on the west side had settled three inches. Initial inspection by Keuler's department revealed the web of the I-beam in that particular section rusted away and beams buckled. Telephone company lines underneath the section were not damaged.

Keuler immediately closed off the damaged section to north and southbound traffic and only a lane on the east side remained open. An abandoned trolley track runs close to the curb on the east side of the track.

The public works director indicated danger of collapse "if heavy vehicular traffic would have been permitted on the west side."

Quincy Takes Final Game of Series From The Foxes, 13 to 2

QUINCY, Ill. — The Quincy Cubs, who had dropped the first two games of their series with the first-place Appleton club, including a 9-2 beating the night before, gained a measure of revenge as they whipped the Foxes, 13-2, Tuesday night.

Second baseman Mike Lisetski drove in six runs for the winners with two home runs, including a grand slam, and a triple.

Chris Barkulis and Ralph Rickey also homered to account for three more Quincy runs. The Cubs connected for 15 hits in all of Steve O'Neill, the loser, and reliever Willie Garrison.

The setback cut Appleton's lead in the Midwest League to 2½ games over idle Clinton. The Foxes move into Decatur to-night for the start of a 2-game series before returning to Appleton to meet Clinton Friday night.

Quincy scored in every inning but the first and fifth. In the fourth and sixth frames, the Cubs tallied four times each to build a 3-0 lead to 7-0 and then 1-0.

Score 2 in 9th
In fact, the count rose to 13-0 before the Foxes managed to

Fight Figures Get Subpoenas At New York

Mafia Involvement Hinted in Check by District Attorney

NEW YORK (AP) — Nine Benvenuti, boxing's middleweight champion, and several other fight figures find out today why they were subpoenaed to appear before New York District Attorney Frank Hogan.

"I don't know what it's all about, but we will cooperate," Benvenuti said Tuesday after Hogan's investigation first came to light.

Also subpoenaed were Dick Tiger, who upset Benvenuti in a nontitle bout Monday night; Bruno Amaduzzi, Nino's manager; fighter Frankie DePaula and his manager, Gary Garafola.

DePaula, a lightweight, was to have fought on the same card as Tiger-Benvenuti, but he was suspended after he and his manager were arrested on charges involving the theft of $80,000 in copper from a New Jersey pier.

Outcome of Fight
Hogan's investigation reportedly does not specifically involve the outcome of the Tiger-Benvenuti fight but rather possible Mafia involvement in the fight game.

The New York Post said Tuesday subpoenas also have been served on a number of key Mafia figures known to be prominent in gambling operations.

According to the New York Daily News, a source said several persons connected with the Monday night fight have been under investigation for some time.

"They have been watched eating, drinking and associating with top underworld figures," the News quoted one source as saying.

Those persons who were ordered to appear at Hogan's office today also were expected to be called to testify before a New York County grand jury.

Benvenuti, meanwhile, also was concerned about his right hand in which he suffered a fractured bone against Tiger.

Dr. Kazuo Yanagisawa, an orthopedic specialist, said it will take from three to four months to heal.

Levias Reportedly Signs Oiler Pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Houston Oilers of the American Football League have signed star offensive end Jerry Levias of Southern Methodist University to a $128,000 contract spanning three years. The Associated Press was reliably informed Tuesday.

Formal announcement of the signing is to be made at a press conference in Houston 15. Other totals were: Appleton, East 13½; Appleton West, 12; next Monday, it was learned. The most of the most nine apiece.

Levias, one of the most sought-after high school athletes in the nation prior to enrolling at SMU, was named on The AP 1968 second All-American team.

Astros Post 6-2 Victory Over Phillies

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
Montreal fans aren't asking much of the Expos. That's what they're getting—not much.

What 21,412 got Tuesday night—one year from the date the club was accepted into the National League—was a chance to see the Expos lose 5-3 to Los Angeles for their 11th straight defeat, longest losing streak in the majors this season.

"They don't want a lot," Manager Gene Mauch said of the Montreal fans. "They just want a little. That's about what we're giving them, too."

While Montreal was giving their boosters little, the Houston Astros were continuing to delight theirs by beating Philadelphia 6-2 for their ninth straight victory and 18th in 22 games in May.

In other National League action, Atlanta edged St. Louis 5-3, San Diego nipped the New York Mets 3-2 and San Francisco shaded the Chicago Cubs 5-4. Pittsburgh and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Snapped 3-3 Tie
Tom Haller's homer did it. Montreal, now 11-28. It came with a man on in the sixth and snapped a 3-3 tie. Coco Laboy's sacrifice fly and Gary Sutherland's two-run single had produced three unearned runs in the fifth that gave the Expos a tie.

Wes Parker also homered and got two other hits for the Dodgers.

Doug Rader made the big offensive noise for Houston, clubbing a bases-loaded homer in the bottom of the ninth. Rader's third homer, which gave Don Wilson, who struck out 13, a 5-4 mark, came off Luis Peraza who came on for Philadelphia after Bill Wilson walked the first three Houston batters.

Despite Houston's hot play, the Astros still are in fifth place in the West Division, eight games back of first-place Atlanta, which beat St. Louis behind the hitting of Felipe Alou.

Alou singled in a run, scored another and started a two-run fifth inning with another hit. Pat Jarvis, who won his fourth straight for a 5-2 record, yielded an RBI single to Lou Brock and Joe Torre's eighth homer, and reliever Cecil Upshaw also was touched for a homer by the Cards' Bob Johnson.

Al Santorini yielded 12 hits but managed to stagger through

New Conference to be Previewed in Appleton East Regional Track Meet

Thursday's Appleton East regional track test looms as a preview of what the new Fox-Cities area conference's meet will be like in a few years.

Six of the seven teams competing in the Class A meet will be members of the new conference, which is already on the drawing board. They are Appleton East, Appleton West, Menasha, Neenah, Kaukauna and Kimberly. The seventh member-to-be, Oshkosh, has been assigned to the Fond du Lac meet.

Shawano will "stand in" for Oshkosh during tomorrow's competition.

Many talented athletes will compete in the pre-holiday track attraction, which starts at 4 p.m. in the Patriots' stadium. Competition will be both in Class B and Class A. The Class B entries are Chilton, Denmark, Kiel, Mishicot, Reedsville, New Holstein and Valders.

Starts at 4 p.m.
All field events and the high hurdles trials are due to start at 4 p.m., according to Meet Manager Keith Kohlman. The 100-yard dash trials are set for 4:15, with the first running event final—the mile run—due to start at 4:30.

The schedule calls for the meet's last event—the mile relay—to begin at 7 p.m.

The 100-yard dash promises to be a sizzler, with AHS-E's Jeff Forslund, the Fox River Valley Conference champion, hooking up with Menasha's Tom Scovronski, the Mid-Eastern circuit's king, Kimberly's Dennis Jansen and Shawano's Lee Greguski are other strong contenders.

Forslund has the best time, to date in the field—with a :10.1

In the 220, Forslund—also the FRVC champion in this event—meets Kimberly's Tim Vandervelden, the M-E titlist. Vandervelden has the best time to date, 22.1 seconds.

Kimberly's Jeff Wildenberg is a title threat in three events—the high jump, the high hurdles and the low hurdles. Jeff's 6-foot-3½ inch leap is the field's best in that category.

In the high hurdles, Wildenberg tangles with Appleton West's Tim Moriarty and Jim Werner, who have been timed in :15.3 and :15.4 respectively. Jeff Wildenberg's :21-flat is the best seconds. (Neenah's Doug Angerer is next, at :52.3).

Shawano's Russ Peterson has hit :21.2 and Kaukauna's Bernie VanZeeland has :21.5.

Menasha's Dave Hoks will be a formidable figure in the "440". He has the best time in the field—a school record 51.7

Sets Record
AHS-E's Jeff Mueller appears to be the class of the pole vaulting field. He recently soared 13 feet to set a new Appleton record. Shawano's Tony Waukau has gone 12 feet.

In the shot put, the Patriots' Don Knaack has by far the best performance to date—56 feet, 4½ inches.

Neenah's "Skip" Iltis heads the discus-tossing field. He has done 144.6. AHS-E's Dave Brown has thrown it 140-10.

No outstanding long jumps have been registered by anyone in the area. AHS-E's Niel Gleason is tops to date, with 20 feet, 5½ inches. Scovronski and Neenah's Pat Hawley (both 20-4) are threats to win.

AHS-W's Mike Moriarty has turned in the best mile—4:34.6. East's Luke De Young is next, with 4:38.7.

Kimberly has posted the best times in both relays—1:32.9 in the 880, and 3:33.1 in the mile. AHS-W is second to the Papermakers in the 880, with 1:34.6.

AHS-E's 3:33.5 is next to Kimberly's time in the mile.

Among the top performers in the Class B competition will be Chilton's Paul Bruckner, who has gone 12-1 in the pole vault; Kiel's Paul Bonde, :15.5 in the high hurdles and :20.9 in the low hurdles; Mishicot's Don Holmes, :15.5 in the 440; and Valders' Rick Riemer, 148-11 in the discus.

Instant Success
Doucette declared that the Bucks were an "instant success," in terms of the fans' support (an average home attendance of 6,200) and 27 victories. No one can expect an "instant winner," even with Alcindor, he cautioned. The Bucks do guarantee an exciting club, he indicated.

The Bucks have no current plans for a new arena but it is a project that will have to be tackled in the future, he said. The recent Big 10 ruling that will make it possible for the University of Wisconsin fieldhouse to be used during the playoffs—if the Bucks attain that level—has solved one major problem, Doucette noted.

Doucette said that the Bucks may sell as many as 5,000 season tickets for the 10,700-seat Milwaukee Arena.

When asked by a Rotarian why the Bucks can't play at least one league game in Green Bay's Brown County Arena, Doucette replied, "We have a nut we have to crack and that arena seats only 5,000." When pressed further about the matter, he said, "I don't formulate policy."

Angels Break 10-Game Loss String, 2 to 1

Mel Stottlemyre Hurls Yankees to Win Over Chisox

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

New skipper Lefty Phillips, with all modesty, will contend it was just a coincidence, but nevertheless the California Angels' ship has finally righted itself.

With Phillips at the helm for the first time since taking over for fired manager Bill Rigney earlier in the day, the listing Angels ended a 10-game losing streak with a 2-1 victory over Cleveland Tuesday night.

"We waited for the ship to right itself and it finally became time that a decision had to be made," General Manager Dick Walsh had said when he let Rigney go with a 11-28 record 12½ games out of first place in the American League's West Division.

It might only be a short successful voyage with the Angels keeling over again, but the Angels must be satisfied with even a one-game winning streak at the moment.

Streaks Broken

While the Angels sailed in winners, several others broke losing streaks—and winning skeins.

Oakland won for the first time in seven games with a 4-3 victory over Detroit, which had its three-game winning string ended, and Washington shattered its six-game losing streak and Minnesota four-game winning run with a 5-1 triumph over the Twins.

The New York Yankees, after losing three straight, beat the Chicago White Sox 5-3 and Seattle ended Baltimore's five-game winning streak with an 8-1 rout over the Orioles. Kansas City won its fourth in a row with a 5-4 decision over Boston.

One of the first things Phillips did was insert Bubba Morton into the Angels' lineup in left field and Morton quickly got them started on the right course with a second inning double. He scored on Lou Johnson's double.

Scored Clincher

After singles by loser Sam McDowell, 3-6, Larry Brown and Lee Maye tied the game for Cleveland in the fifth, California scored the clincher in the seventh.

Rick Reichardt, moved from left field to first base by Phillips, beat out a bounce and Morton walked before Johnson looped the winning run-scoring hit to center field.

Hayt Wilhelm, in relief of Jim McGlothlin, 4-3, blanked the Indians the last two innings and the Angels were home free.

Sal Bando gave Oakland its victory with a seventh inning homer off reliever Don McMahon, 0-3, that broke a 3-3 tie and gave Chuck Dobson, 4-4, the triumph with a four-hitter.

Barry Moore, 3-1, scattered six hits in his first complete game in 27 starts since 1967 and only the third by a Washington pitcher this season. Brant Alyea backed with a homer and a single for three runs.

Mel Stottlemyre of the Yankees, who has lost three times, became the first eight-game winner in the major leagues when he slugged a two-run tie-breaking homer with two out in the eighth inning off Wilbur Wood. His single also helped the Yankees take a 3-2 lead in the seventh.

Bluejays Win District Title

MENASHA — Pounding out 15 hits, Menasha High School blasted Kaukauna, 12-1, for the championship of the WIAA district baseball tournament here Tuesday afternoon.

The Bluejays now move into a district playoff game against the winner of the Seymour tourney, later this week or early next.

Menasha, bidding for a second straight trip to the state tourney, cracked a bases-empty homer, hament, sent four runners to across the plate in the first inning, added three markers in the second, one in the fourth and final quarter in the seventh.

Ron Haack limited the Ghosts to four hits, and only two until the seventh, when they tallied their only run.

Vern Shukoski led Menasha's attack with five straight singles. Chuck Gilbert hit a double and two singles.

Kaukauna Wins Invitational Tennis Crown at AHS-W

Kaukauna High School won the Appleton West invitational tennis meet Tuesday. The event had been postponed 10 days ago because of rain.

Kaukauna scored 16½ points, while runnerup Neenah tallied 15. Other totals were: Appleton, East 13½; Appleton West, 12; next Monday, it was learned. The most of the most nine apiece.

Neenah's John Whittlinger won the No. 1 singles title. He beat West's Mark Brinkman in love sets in the finals.

Kaukauna's Pat Kehoe beat North's Bill Kramer, 6-3, 6-3, to take No. 2 singles honors.

North's Tom Brassen and Dave Van Handel won the No. 1 doubles crown by beating Kaukauna's Pat Brantigan and Mark Kobin, 1-6, 7-5, 6-4, in the finals.

Kimberly's Bruce Larson and Dave Van Hammen took the No. 2 doubles title with a 5-7, 6-1, 6-3 win over West's Larry Chapman and Mike Milhaupt.

Lodge Again Asks Saigon Recognition

PARIS (AP) — The United States told North Vietnam and the Viet Cong today that a political settlement of the Vietnam problem is impossible "without the full participation and agreement of the legitimate, duly elected Saigon Government."

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declared that efforts to exclude the South Vietnamese government from political negotiations "only delays peace and prolongs the war."

Lodge spoke at the 19th full-scale session of the Paris peace talks after North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front had repeated their demands for a Saigon peace cabinet to be followed by a provisional coalition government. Both assailed the government of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

No Progress

There was no sign of progress in the talks, as the negotiators stood firm on the main issues of troop withdrawals and terms of a political settlement. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong also returned to their attack on the Nixon administration, accusing it of intensifying the war and of trying to perpetuate the division of Vietnam.

Lodge charged that criticism of President Nixon's eight-point peace plan had been "sadly misleading."

"Why do you not respond positively to the offer of the president of the republic of Vietnam, made over two months ago, to discuss a political solution with the National Liberation Front?" Lodge asked.

He made it clear that the United States would not interfere in efforts to arrive at a political solution, but would be present at political negotiations, along with the representatives of North Vietnam if the other side desired it.

Troop Withdrawal

On the question of troop withdrawals, Lodge asserted that "if there is to be a productive negotiation on this key question of withdrawals, North Vietnam must be prepared to withdraw its military forces and subversive personnel from South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos back to North Vietnam."

He added that the United States was flexible as to how this is done, but that it stands by its position that the withdrawal must be mutual.

North Vietnam's deputy negotiator, Ha Van Lau, spoke in the absence of chief negotiator Xuan Thuy, who has returned to Hanoi for consultations. He accused Lodge of having tried to deceive the public by saying there was common ground in the Nixon plan and the 10-point proposal of the NLF.

South Vietnam's Pham Dang Lam described the proposal for an interim Saigon government as "an antidemocratic demand . . . to create a kind of provisional administration set up in a shady manner by talking between people who do not represent anybody."

NATO Nuclear Arms Talks Start

Flowers for Their Soldier

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Memorial Day flowers placed on the grave of Sgt. Richard F. Campos will be paid for by part of the allowances of young Mark and David Huey who never heard of the soldier until his death.

Each week for two years, Mark, 11, and David, 12, have "put some of their money in a little jar we call 'Richard's Flower Money,' their mother, Mrs. Lucian C. Huey, said.

Then early in the morning of each Memorial Day, Veterans Day, the soldier's birthday anniversary and the anniversary of his death in Vietnam, a floral company in San Bruno, Calif., puts a wreath on the grave in Golden Gate National Cemetery in San Francisco.

Add Some

The bill goes to Mr. and Mrs. Huey of Birmingham. "I usually have to add something to the boys' money to pay the bill," Mrs. Huey said.

Mr. and Mrs. Huey unofficially adopted Campos in 1967 after reading that his body lay unclaimed for two weeks in Oakland Army Terminal in late 1966.

Campos was reared as an orphan and was a ward of the court when he enlisted in the Army at age 17. His body finally was claimed by an uncle who had not seen him in 15 years.

"My family was touched when we read that all his life he wanted to belong, to have a family," Mrs. Huey said. They tried to adopt him posthumously so "he would have a family to remember him." But they found this was legally impossible.

Family Member

Mark said at the time: "If no one else wants him, he can be a member of our family."

Huey, a machine company superintendent, and his wife have made entries in the family Bible making Campos a member of their family. They sponsor a flag in his honor in the Avenue of Flags in nearby Irondale.

Mrs. Huey said: "Both of our sons are adopted, and they know what it means to belong and to be loved."

When accounts of the Hueys' plan for flowers appeared in West Coast newspapers, she said, several people in California sent pictures of the grave to her and wrote that they were putting flowers there also. And others sent her maps of the city and the cemetery pointing out where the grave is located.

Mrs. Norate DeSa of San Leandro, Calif., whose husband is in the Canal Zone with the Army, places flowers at the grave periodically and corresponds with the Hueys.

Science Adviser In Key Biscayne For Conferences

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon, here for a holiday stay, summoned his science adviser to Florida today to announce a "new initiative" aimed at fighting pollution.

Dr. Lee A. DuBridge, former head of the California Institute of Technology, was called to Nixon's island home to talk about "the total environment" a White House spokesman said. Later he was to meet with newsmen to disclose a new administration move in antipollution.

The subjects of air and water pollution long have concerned federal policymakers and, most recently, possible harmful effects of such insecticides such as DDT have become an issue for some Congressmen.

College Youths

DuBridge also has been a presidential adviser on campus disorders. While discussion of that subject at the Nixon-DuBridge conference was not ruled out, no announcement in the college youth area was anticipated during the chief executive's Florida stay.

The President and Mrs. Nixon flew here Wednesday night and will remain until Sunday afternoon. They found the yards of their two waterfront properties, which are barely above sea level, very soggy after heavy rains.

While here, Nixon will be working on addresses to be delivered to college audiences next week. On Tuesday he will participate in the dedication of the Karl Mundt Library, named for the veteran Republican senator, at General Beadle College, Madison, S.D. The next morning he will deliver the commencement address at the Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

The chief executive also will be reviewing position papers and other documents in preparation for his Midway Island meeting June 8 with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

Daughter Tricia flew to Florida with the Nixons. Daughter Julie and her husband David Eisenhower were joining them later today.

Laird Meets With Allies In Europe

LONDON (AP) — U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird and six NATO colleagues opened talks today on guidelines for the use of nuclear weapons in Europe to protect the North Atlantic allies.

The defense ministers of the United States, Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Turkey and Denmark had before them a top secret study by Britain and West Germany on how the NATO nuclear might stationed in Europe can be used best to deter a Soviet attack.

Earlier British research showed that use of NATO's tactical nuclear weapons on a European battlefield and the Soviet retaliation that would probably follow would devastate the area. The possibility that West Germany would be the battlefield spurred the search for alternative tactics that might deter the Russians from an attack.

"Demonstration Bomb" One suggestion was explosion of a "demonstration bomb" in an area where it could do little harm. The idea would be to warn the Soviets the West was prepared to use nuclear weapons if necessary.

Other proposals included the use of maritime nuclear explosions and atomic land mines on possible Soviet invasion routes.

British Defense Minister Denis Healey, who co-authored the British-German study, has said that in the event of a major Soviet attack, NATO would have to surrender or use nuclear weapons within a few days because of the superior conventional striking force of the Soviet bloc. He says this superiority is more than 2 to 1 in infantry formations, nearly 2 to 1 in aircraft, and nearly 3 to 1 in armored units.

7,000 Warheads Healey says the basis of NATO defense now rests disproportionately on some 7,000 nuclear warheads the United States has deployed on European territory for delivery by various means.

Healey has called for an increase in conventional NATO striking forces. But Canada is planning to bring home two-thirds of its 10,000-man force in Europe by 1972, and U.S. officials fear other allies will reduce their commitments to NATO.

The Canadian plans came under heavy criticism when NATO defense ministers met Wednesday in Brussels. Laird urged the Canadians to reconsider and said: "I don't believe this is the time to reduce our commitments to European security."

He said the West is moving into a period of negotiations with the Soviets and "it is important that we move from a position of strength."

Hostile to Canada Healey said the sentiment among the West European allies was "unanimous and extremely hostile toward the Canadian move."

The British-German study is the only agenda item for the two-day meeting of NATO's nuclear planning group. The group was set up to give European members a voice in nuclear strategy, but it can only suggest guidelines for the American President. He is still the only one who can order the nuclear trigger pulled.

Any guidelines approved at the meeting here will be submitted to NATO's 14 participating member nations at a meeting in November. The timetable allows for France to rejoin the deliberations if it so chooses after next month's presidential elections.

Thieu, Park Hold Meeting in Seoul

SEOUL (AP) — Visiting President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam met with President Chung Hee Park today and informants said they agreed U.S. bases on Okinawa are vital to the security of Asia.

A high Korean source said Thieu may carry a message from Park giving his views on Okinawa when he meets with President Nixon at Midway Island next month.

Park said earlier this year that American bases must remain on Okinawa even after it and other Ryukyu Islands are returned to Japan.

Performance Questioned

Military to Probe Safety of Jeeps

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is making an unprecedented inquiry into the performance of one of the Army's best-known vehicles which statistics show has killed or injured thousands of American soldiers.

The investigation of the familiar, jeep-type M151 truck will be conducted by the National Highway Safety Bureau.

A spokesman said it is the first time the bureau has looked into the safety of vehicles purchased by the armed services.

The Army has purchased 123,017 of the M151s from Ford Motor Co. since 1960, at an aggregate cost of nearly $400 million.

Smooth Ride

Because of its independent rear-wheel suspension, the M151 rides more smoothly than its predecessors.

But it also tends to tip over. Incomplete Army statistics show hundreds of soldiers have been killed and thousands disabled since the vehicle came into service.

The Army Materiel Command says no major modifications have ever been made on the M151.

"We just didn't see it (the stability problem) in the testing and early use of the M151," a civilian engineer on the M151 project said. "When the accident reports began coming in, we tried a number of gimmicks at the testing level, but none of them helped."

Training Program Instead, the Army instituted a thorough driver-training program to orient the young enlisted men to the peculiarities of the sturdy little vehicle. Training manuals, Army circulars, and a hair-raising 12-minute training film, in color, were ordered for all M151 drivers.

The M151's problem is called "oversteer," the same situation that made Chevrolet's Corvair a national issue several years ago. Because of the suspension system, the Army tells its drivers, the rear wheels tend to slide away from the direction of a turn, even at low speeds.

Contrary to the ordinary training received in civilian life, the M151 driver must steer away from the direction of the turn.

"A situation necessitating this correction should be avoided," the Army instructions caution. "Acceleration must be reduced to maintain control."

Problem in Europe The Army reports its driver-training campaign cut deep into the fatality and accident rate—particularly in Western Europe, where the problem seemed greatest.

But in the fiscal year 1967 the Army totaled 3,538 accidents worldwide involving the M151, with 104 GIs killed, 1,858 injured.

While the National Safety Council reported only 1.6 per cent of all domestic traffic accidents resulting from overturned vehicles, the Army found that 36 per cent of its M151 mishaps resulted from the truck's overturning without a collision.

The M151 is a successor to the "general purpose vehicle" that became famous in World War II as the "jeep," a nickname taken from its initials. The nickname later became the trade name for the product developed during the war by the Willis company.

It's Christmas
In Summer for Oshkosh Mother

OSHKOSH (AP) — The calendar says it's May, but a sparkling, decorated six-foot Christmas tree stands in the living room of the home of Mrs. Fred Fuchs Jr.

Mrs. Fuchs, a widow, and her 15-year-old daughter Rosemarie, put up the Scotch pine last Christmas and decided to keep it up for the return of a son, Airman I.C. Charles Fuchs, 20, his wife, Jean and their six-week-old daughter, Penny Lynn.

Fuchs, who is headed for Thailand, had been stationed at Hills Air Force Base, Ogden, Utah, since last June, and last year was his first Christmas away from home. He and his family arrived in Oshkosh this month.

"I wanted to see the baby's reaction to the lights," explained the elder Mrs. Fuchs. She hasn't decided now when to take the tree down.

Plenty of Room for Apollo 11

SPACE CENTER, Houston

(AP) — The site planned for man's first landing attempt on the moon is pocked with small craters and borders a ravine, but there is still room to park a spacecraft, Apollo 10 photographs show.

The photos, taken during the moon orbit flight of Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdrs. John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan and released Wednesday, show the prime landing area to be smoother than other areas of the rugged lunar surface.

The landing point is located less than a degree north of the lunar equator and 24.2 degrees east of the vertical center line on the earth-side of the moon.

Smooth Areas

Small craters are sprinkled throughout the landings site, but there are also broad patches of smooth, even areas. A large 1½ to 2 mile wide crater is on the north side of the site and a faint ravine, or rille, borders the east side.

A photograph of a secondary landing site shows it to be rougher than the primary site.

69 Miles Distant

Dr. John Dietrick, a National Aeronautics and Space Administration geologist, said the pictures studied so far present few surprises about the landing site but give new views of the approach to the site selected for a landing attempt by Apollo 11 in July.

Other views show rugged mountains, deep craters, ridges and long steep-sided canyons, which are called rilles.

All the still photographs in moon orbit were taken by the Apollo 10 astronauts while they were 69 miles above the surface. They used 70 mm cameras.

The space agency also showed newsmen 16 mm motion film taken by the Apollo 10 crew.

Some of this film shows the approaches to landing sites from altitudes below 69 miles. Stafford and Cernan dipped within 9.4 miles of the moon, but their precise altitude when the pictures were taken was not immediately known. The moon's surface appears little different from the lower-altitude pictures, compared to those shot from higher.

While the pictures were being released, the Apollo 10 astronauts were undergoing an intensive debriefing of their eight-day flight which ended Monday. Officials have said the information, observations and photos the Apollo 10 crew brought back from the moon will be vital to the Apollo 11 landing attempt.

Stafford and his crewmates will continue the debriefing for eight hours daily until June 7.

Bruce, the prominent crater near the bottom, is 3.7 miles in diameter. Features are accentuated by the sun. (AP Wirephoto)

JFK Home Is National Historical Site

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — The frame dwelling where John F. Kennedy was born became a national historical site today.

In a simple ceremony, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy Sr., the late president's mother, planned to hand the deed to Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel.

The shingled, 2½ story birthplace of the 35th president has been restored by the Kennedy family as a shrine.

Today would have been Kennedy's 52nd birthday.

In an acceptance speech, Hickel said:

"All Americans are grateful to the Kennedy family—and especially to you, the president's mother—for the sense of history that motivated the restoration of this building, and for the willingness to share it with their fellow citizens."

"We promise you that we will cherish it and maintain it in a manner that will be a continuing source of pride to all Americans."

The house stands on quiet Beale Street, only a few blocks from the city line of Boston, where the family fortune was made, and which became the political base for Kennedy's rise to the White House.

On the lawn is a granite boulder with a bronze tablet identifying the house as Kennedy's birthplace.

Mrs. Kennedy supervised the reassembly of furniture the family used when they lived there from 1914 to 1920 and the furnishing of the rooms as she remembered them.

Recordings of her descriptions of each room, and recollections of her family's life there, are played through loudspeakers in each room. An upstairs bedroom is where Mrs. Kennedy gave birth to John, her second son.

GOP's Budget Fight Inflamed by Democrats

By ARTHUR L. SRB
Associated Press Writer

MADISON (AP)—Democrats expected to have stepped into the Republican over efforts by Gov. Warren P. Knowles' legislative committee to restore funds to his abated budget proposal.

Sen. Gordon Roseleip, a Darlington Republican, said, "That's a good analogy." Yet, "what goes with Christmas?" Roseleip added. "Santa Claus. I've got some Santa Claus in my party."

Roseleip was among the seven Republicans who voted against consideration of the funds-restoration package from the legislative committee.

"It's a big tree with lots of ornaments," he said.

Fear Precedent

Sen. James Swan, R-Elkhorn, said the substitute package is an insult to the weeks of effort by the Joint Finance Committee to control state government spending and keep tax increases to a minimum.

Swan, a committee member, said the vote Wednesday by the Senate would establish a precedent: "Whether to honor a legislative committee or pressure from the state agencies."

"The agencies will destroy us," he added.

"This is a personal affront to this committee," said Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, in agreement with Swan.

"One member of my party saw fit to scuttle the entire project," Lorge said. "This action has contributed to the destruction of working committees in the legislature."

Budget Review Plan Opposed

School Officials Object to Proposed Council Authority

MADISON (AP)—School representatives objected vigorously Wednesday to a Senate suggestion that local legislatures be allowed to review school board budgets, especially when property taxes are involved.

"If the Common Council got their mitts on the school system, education would go right out the window," said Lloyd Larson, a sports writer who is a member of Milwaukee's school board.

Larson spoke in opposition to a Senate amendment to a tax bill recommended by the Tarr force. The bill, under review by the Assembly Municipalities Committee, would repeal tax limits set by popularly elected officials.

However, the proposed amendment would place the Milwaukee school board's budget under the jurisdiction of the city's aldermen.

George Rice, Milwaukee County corporation counsel, backed the amendment. He said popularly elected local units of government should have the power to review school budget requests.

Ed Neubauer, head of the Milwaukee Teachers Association, opposed the plan, accusing the Common Council of believing the school board is fiscally irresponsible "when, in fact, it is as 'rigged by the bourgeoisie' as the Communist Party."

Neubauer's association has urged that the school board have greater access to revenue in hope of improving the school system.

It endorsed a measure to raise the statutory ceiling on interest for loans obtained by municipalities. The bill would raise ceilings to 7 per cent from 5 per cent for promissory notes, and to 8 per cent from 6 per cent on bonds.

Assemblyman Mark Lipscomb, D-Milwaukee, opposed the bill, saying it would encourage inflation by helping cities delve into more building projects.

French Candidate 'Too Revolutionary' for Reds

PARIS (AP)—Alain Krivine, a 27-year-old who is too revolutionary for France's Communist Party, is the only army private ever to run for the French presidency.

"I cannot promise that," Kri- of premier. Krivine replied, "because if I'm Krivine, the intellectual son of elected I plan to abolish the post a prominent French physician.

The army gave the draftee a month's leave to campaign, and Krivine has used his immunity from army discipline to blast the "military establishment" which he claims was the backbone of President Charles de Gaulle's rule.

One commentator jibed that he wanted to "jump straight from private to commander-in-chief."

Krivine

The dark-eyed firebrand says he can't win the election Sunday because all democratic process is "rigged by the bourgeoisie," and that includes the French Communist Party.

Small Vote

Pre-election polls give him barely 2 per cent of the vote.

A former history student, Krivine was expelled from the Communist Party three years ago and is running as the candidate of the Trotskyite Communist League.

He admits he is not out to win votes so much as to preach violence.

"Our campaign is mainly educational," he says. "We want to carry our message to the working class and remind people that there are ways other than elections to overthrow capitalist rule."

Krivine was one of the leaders of the 1968 students' revolt, the star of the revolt, "Danny the Red" Cohn-Bendit, offered his support for Krivine's presidential campaign if the candidate would promise to make him premier.

The enemy cease-fire began at 7 a.m. Allied forces were to start a 24-hour truce period at 6 a.m. Friday (5 p.m. CDT Thursday). Meanwhile, more than 50 allied operations of battalion size or larger continued without a truce.

At least 50 Viet Cong were reported killed in the action north-west of Saigon. Initial reports said one American was killed and seven wounded.

Congregating for Wait "They were congregating in there for their stand-down period," said a U.S. military spokesman. "We had intelligence information they were going to be in there for a meeting to plan actions for their summer campaign next month. We weren't standing down."

It was a sparsely settled farm area of scattered houses, rice paddies and bamboo hedgerows. Military spokesmen said an American plane with a loud-speaker flew over, urging the Viet Cong to surrender and calling on the rest of the people to move out.

The spokesman said about 200 women and children moved out, but the Viet Cong started shooting with machine guns and rocket grenades. The enemy troops were entrenched in fighting holes.

HL10 Soars to 65,000 Feet

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Dropped from the wings of a B52 bomber, an HL10 lifting body vehicle soared at 825 miles an hour on its own to a record altitude—64,500 feet.

"Boy, this baby really climbs now," space agency pilot John A. Manke radioed as he opened all four barrels of the HL10's rocket engine Wednesday.

On May 9, the HL10 set a record speed of 725 m.p.h. at 54,000 feet. The wedge-shaped craft, a prototype of future space ferries, is expected to reach 1,100 m.p.h. in later flights.

9 Divorces Are Granted

Cruel, Inhuman Treatment Grounds In All Actions

Cruel and inhuman treatment was charged in each of nine divorces granted recently in Outagamie County Court.

Thomas L. Guilfoyle, 35, 510 W. Wisconsin Ave., Kaukauna, was divorced by Margaret Guilfoyle, 32, 812 S. Matthias St., Appleton. They were married Jan. 3, 1959, and had five children. The court will rule later on alimony and division of property.

Dorothy Fraley, 22, 329 S. James St., Kimberly, was divorced from Clifford R. Fraley, 20, White Lake, whom she married Aug. 9, 1965. They have one child.

A ruling on alimony and division of property was delayed in the divorce of Pearl Mytas, 53, 906 W. Winnebago St., from John Mytas, 57, 826 W. Elsie St. They were married Jan. 4, 1947.

Terri Hopfensperger, 19, 192 Baldwin Court, was divorced from Alvin Hopfensperger, 22, 10021 S. Jefferson St., whom she married Aug. 12, 1967. They had no children. The court approved a property settlement.

Decision on Alimony

Leonard A. Mott Jr., 29, LaCrosse, was divorced by Carole Jean Mott, 26, 265 Marcella St., Kimberly. They were married Oct. 14, 1961, and have one child. A decision on alimony, support, and division of property will be made later by the court.

Robert A. Thomas, 32, 1322 S. Carpenter St., was divorced from Betty Thomas, 29, 231 S. Arlington St. Married June 7, 1959, they had three children. A property settlement was approved.

Baptist Stevens Sr., 55, route 1, Oneida, was ordered to pay $100 per month support following his divorce by Mary Stevens, 41, route 2, West DePere. They were married Dec. 4, 1943, and had three children, two of whom are still under 18 years of age.

Douglas T. Michaels, 26, Elgin, Ill., was divorced by Judith Michaels, 24, Milwaukee. They were married Aug. 12, 1967, and had no children.

A property settlement was approved in the divorce of Louise Ann Lehrer, 24, 300 E. Ninth St., Kaukauna, from Lee J. Lehrer, 27, 801 1/2 Blackwell St., Kaukauna. They were married Aug. 1, 1964, and had no children.

Town Board Meeting 18 Building Permits Issued in Greenville

GREENVILLE — A total of 18 building permits have been issued to date this year, Fred Kaphingst, building inspector, reported to the Greenville Town Board at its Monday meeting.

The permits include five commercial, totaling $166,950; seven for homes at a cost of $132,360; three farm buildings for $9,100; one commercial remodeling project to cost $800; and two garages totaling $4,000.

The board voted to accept a road to be named Greenwood Court after Merle Ziegler presented the deed. The road will be constructed on his property at the intersection of Greenwood and School roads.

David Mocine explained his plan to widen Greenwood Road by removing a minimum of trees. He was told he will have to present his proposal at the board's meeting with the engineer.

Alfred Handschke, Herman Jennerjohn and Ed Bergman showed a preliminary plan for a plot on Handschke's property at the intersection of U. S. 45 and Julius Road. Handschke was advised to complete the road as shown on the plan and obtain the services of an engineer to set the proper grades.

Mr. and Mrs. Royal Shepardson requested that their property on Ellen Lane be rezoned to commercial so it could be sold to a concern to start a nursery business. They were told the request would have to be approved by the county zoning committee.

Members of the board will meet with the engineer to plan the widening and improving of Greenwood Road from School Road to Everglade Road, a distance of 1 1/2 miles. The reconstruction of School Road to Julius Road has been awarded to Carl Krause for a $22,289.

Watershed Approved

The Wisconsin Soil Conservation Board has approved the Bear Creek Watershed application for planning assistance which includes a large area of the Town of Greenville.

It was voted that the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. be granted permission to install a gas line on Meadowlane and a water problem in the ditch of Ellen Lane should be inspected and corrected.

There will be a charge of $25 for the use of the town tank truck and $15 for additional trips when it is called to furnish water outside the town.

A report was made that a lot of road signs will have to be replaced from snow plowing damage and vandalism.

Thieves Stole Container of 'Big Trouble'

Thieves who stole a container of chemicals from an Appleton firm placed themselves in considerable danger, police said today.

The theft report was filed Wednesday by the McKesson Chemical Co., 1836 W. Rogers St.

At first it was believed vandals climbed over the fence and in the plant yard where they tipped over chemical containers. However, it later was discovered that a large container of muratic acid was missing.

Police were told by company officials that the thieves subjected themselves to considerable harm by chemical burns or could have started a serious fire.

AHS-East and AHS-West both have announced the members of the cheerleading squads. West's team includes Betsy Bates, Donna Dorn, Cindi Douglas, Linda Kohli, Bonnie LaPine, Chris Palm and Cindy Rehfeldt.

On the Varsity squad at East are Kathy Christianson, Jane Daine, Penny Orbison, Paula Pierre, Chris Sanders and Gloria Weigman.

Traffic Safety Plan Pushed By Knowles

MADISON (AP) — A campaign to "bring 'em back alive" and send the tourists home safely gets underway today with the backing of a traffic safety proclamation signed Monday by Gov. Warren P. Knowles.

The proclamation authorizes National Guard volunteers to help the State Highway Patrol with traffic control during summer holiday weekends, beginning Thursday and lasting until Sept. 1.

Knowles announced the plan, sponsored by the American Automobile Association, during a meeting of a "bring 'em back alive committee." Tourism industry representatives also attended.

The governor urged the group to help win legislative approval of his traffic safety proposals, including one under which motorists would agree to chemical tests to determine alcoholic content in blood, or surrender their licenses.

His "implied consent" bill has not passed the Assembly, but was approved in the Senate.

The governor said his proposal to make the wearing of a seat belt mandatory "is not catching on very fast in the legislature."

"It's ears, while closely attuned to public opinion in most instances, are blocked to highway safety," he said.

Knowles encouraged the public to listen to the Holiday News Service of the AAA during Memorial Day weekend.

Little Chute School to Graduate Class of 37

LITTLE CHUTE — A total of 37 pupils will graduate from Little Chute Elementary school at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the high school auditorium.

Members of the class will participate in a program of musical selections and declamations.

State Senate Deserves Censure

During the last week and the early part of this week, the members of the Wisconsin State Senate spent more of their time in Madison behind the closed doors of a caucus room than they spent in the ornate and expensively furnished public chamber that the people of Wisconsin have provided as a place for senate business.

The occasion was private deliberation of the several versions of a biennial budget bill that are before the house. The excuse of the senators, we can surmise with utmost confidence, is that these are matters of extreme complexity, involving considerations of high political strategy, not to mention issues of sensitivity that will inevitably affect the 1970 election campaigns. Perhaps these matters will even control the political fate of the Republican majority, which has insisted upon these meetings outside the view and beyond the hearing range of the public and the press.

Yet it is precisely because the budget issue is so important, precisely because the people of Wisconsin want to know who is saying and doing what and why, that the excessive reliance upon secret deliberations in Madison should be condemned.

This measure will involve upward of a billion and a half dollars in tax liability for the people of Wisconsin, give or take a few scores of millions.

It is by all odds the most important legislation that is before our elected representatives in the state capital this year.

Measured in its impact upon each individual of Wisconsin in cost terms alone, it represents a per capita tax liability of about $400. But taxation is not levied on a per capita basis. Perhaps only one half of the 4,000,000 or so residents of Wisconsin pay taxes in perceptible amounts. Thus the typical liability of the individual represented in this budget will be $800 or more. For thousands it will be considerably higher.

Surely a legislator's attitude must be one of contempt when he arranges, or even consents, to such decisions affecting his constituents without permitting them to know what is going on.

Some of these members, as we know, want to have closed sessions in order to have explanations of the budget document made to them, without being required to show their ignorance in public. That is an explanation, but it is not an excuse. The budget story at the capitol has been the biggest story there for months. If the average state senator does not now have a fair comprehension of the issues involved, he could listen to the committee chairman or the members of the finance committee in open floor discussion.

There are considerations of political strategy. The Republican majority party is divided on the scope of the budget, and on particular spending purposes. There is concern about the attitude of the Democrats. Will they commit some votes if the need arises? Again, these are explanations, not justifications.

Any secret budget making on the county board, or the city council, or even in the U. S. Congress, would be condemned for what it is — a defiance of the most elementary concepts of representative government. The legislature deserves such a response from the people of Wisconsin.

Idle Board May Chase Spooks

It begins to appear that there may be something for that nine-man, $36,000 a year per, Subversive Activities Control Board to do after all. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell seems to be seeking authority for the SACB to investigate campus disorders, even when they fall short of trying to overthrow the United States government.

The SACB almost died a year ago because legislation passed in 1967 required that it hold at least one hearing to justify its existence. The U.S. attorney general hadn't referred any cases to the board, but finally he did, since some congressmen thought the SACB ought to be kept alive even if Communists were pretty hard to find.

Mitchell told the special education and labor subcommittee on campus disorders that "we are considering expanding the powers of the SACB" so that it could investigate the Students for Democratic Society, for instance, and other groups that spearhead the campus revolts. The Federal Bureau of Investigation has been doing the investigation to date and hasn't been able to find evidence that the SDS is engaged in a conspiracy to overthrow the government of the United States. This is frustrating indeed, since it is far easier for those over age 30 to blame Communies and conspiracies for the problems on the campus rather than concede there might have been failures among administrators and faculties.

Certainly such powers should keep the SACB busy for years to come. And in the unlikely event that it ever runs out of unruly campuses, it might get down to what has been the real cause of most of student disruptions — the war in Vietnam — and what sort of a conspiracy ever got us into that.

China Still a Paranoid

When the Chinese write about the "imperialist colonizers" these days, it's hard to tell whether they refer to Americans or Russians. Recent articles in Jenmin Jih Pao, Chinese Communist party newspaper, attacked the huge amounts of United States military spending and Soviet naval activities at the same time and warned that Peking was ready for an attack from either country.

The Chinese have tentatively agreed to discuss with the Russians the border disputes that have resulted in several armed clashes and loss of life. But they charge that the Soviet fleet is aiming at encirclement of China and that the invasion of Czechoslovakia was merely an old Czarist trick, heretical in the true spirit of socialism.

There is no sign at present of any softening of the Chinese line against negotiation with the United States. The basic requirement, according to the newspaper, is still the American abandonment of protection for Taiwan, and again the fear of encirclement comes through.

Actually Taiwan is probably pretty well able to defend itself, as it has the largest military force, outside of China, in the area and a considerable amount of determination and cohesiveness. Taiwan is no democracy and there are still an undisclosed number of political prisoners in jail. But the economic health of the nation and the ever improved standard of living for the majority of both Chinese and Taiwanese have helped to ease the political antagonisms. In fact one obvious reason that Peking continues to demand the control of Taiwan is the embarrassment of the contrast between living conditions on Taiwan and the mainland of China.

Despite the upheavals of the Red Guards which got out of hand and went much farther in causing disruptions than Mao Tse-tung envisioned, there is no sign that the current rulers in China are any less paranoid than before or any more favorable to closer relations with either the United States or the Soviet Union.

Looking Backward

People to Vote on Side Track

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for May 13, 1869.

The arrangements are completed at last for the construction of the Side Track in this city.

The Chicago and North Western Railway Company would not consent to a grade of more than one foot in a hundred, neither to as sharp a grade as been calculated upon, entailing an outlay of upwards of $25,000 over the highest previous estimates.

This rendered it necessary to obtain aid or abandon the enterprise. The City Council weighed the matter maturely and, being convinced of the immense advantage of this track, and the need for the impetus it must give necessarily toward the development of our untold resources, recommended that the sum of $12,000 be granted, for that purpose, by the issue of bonds on the credit of the city.

The matter is now in the hands of the people. Next Thursday they will be called on to decide, by the sovereignty of the ballot, which they shall choose to have.

The want of this improvement has been felt for years, and efforts have repeatedly been made to accomplish it. The city at one time offered a bonus of $30,000 to the C. & N.W. R.R. Co. for its construction, and failed on those terms to make arrangements. Now, only two-thirds that amount is asked. Can anyone refuse to grant it? We think not.

25 YEARS AGO
Thursday, May 25, 1944.

The U. S. 5th Army merged its two fronts, the Anzio push and the main force above Terracina, that day in its push toward Rome.

Hugo Schultes, Stephensville, was named president of the Hortonville-Stephensville Sportsman Club. Other officers were B. J. Olk, Hortonville, vice president; M. F. Ziehm, Hortonville, secretary-treasurer; Ora Wunderlich, Bert Wittlin, Howard Wunderlich, all of Stephensville, Stephen Otis and Milford Steffen, of Hortonville members of the board.

Mrs. Francis Griswold was elected treasurer of the New London Girl Scout Association. Mrs. Walter Spiering, New London, entertained members of the Autumn Leaf Club at the Red Geranium Tea Room. Prizes in cards went to Mrs.

10 YEARS AGO
Thursday, May 28, 1959

Two monkeys returned alive that day from a 1,500-mile space ride in the nose cone of an army missile. The little female monkeys named Able and Baker were the first living creatures known to have ridden into space and come back alive. The Jupiter missile fired from Cape Canaveral climbed to an altitude of 300 miles and traveled at speeds up to 10,000 miles per hour.

National Honor Society members at Kimberly High School were Peggy Jo Frank, Marlene Timmers, Mary Ellen Millis, Barbara Bunnow, Jean Case, Virginia Zuleger, Kathy Neessen, Michael Mitchell, Ray Pitsch, David Hamann, Dennis Dressang, Maxine Van Lankvelt, Ruth Hofensperger, Jack Lamers, Barry Seidel and David Schummers.

Mrs. Wilmer Saiberlich was elected president of the Elks Ladies 337 Club Chorus. Others elected were Mrs. Mait Chuchel, secretary; Mrs. Frank Liethen, treasurer, and Mrs. Martin Hupka, telephone chairman.

Practical Idealism Reigns Among Ghetto's Confident Entrepreneurs

BY WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY

CLEVELAND — At Hough, which is the ghetto area of Cleveland that went berserk in the summer of 1966, there are those who are trying to fight despair. I think we — "we" — are a dozen journalists touring the nation's slums under the sponsorship of Whitney Young's Urban League — must have met them all, and they are an impressive lot. In their thirties, mostly, strikingly intelligent, resolutely dignified, rather a bit too worldly except about their own concerns, and here and there a little feisty.

One gentleman seated with a half dozen others who were gathered to explain the work of the Hough Development Corporation, declined to proceed unless each of the journalists rose to give his name and publication, scholarly fashion. It is wonderfully leveling "Luce, Time." A friend recalls an experience at the Harvard Law School, when a classmate on the prowl turned brusquely to a lonely black student eating at the other end of the table, to ask provocatively, "What does your father do?" The boy looked up. "He's a king."

The journalists, predominantly white, are thus put gently in their place, and are given to know that the Hough Development Corporation is headed and largely staffed by "black nationalists." It isn't altogether clear nowadays exactly what that means. It can mean something as specific as Milton Henry's separate black republic, and something as general as local autonomy. NOT "BLACK CAPITALISM."

But it isn't racist in the exclusionist sense of a James Forman, who will not nowadays shake the hand of Joseph L. Roth Jr. progress, because that hand is white. In that semi-circle was a young man just out of Yale Law School, white as the driven snow, who does the legal work for HDC. "We figure we ought to know what the laws are when we break them," the chairman said cheerily, and a second lanky and grave young man, soon to matriculate at the Harvard Law School, who works as a volunteer, harnessing his not inconsiderable connections as son of the president of the principal bank in Cleveland.

What is it all about? Not, they tell you, "black capitalism." Black capitalism is out in the jargon. Why? For one thing it is a term that is used approvingly by "the structure." For another, "capitalism" sounds bad in progressive circles. So that the term is not permitted to be used in describing the activities of HDC.

On the other hand, the anti-poverty entrepreneurs seem to revel in the swinging vocabulary of capitalism. Their Handyman's Maintenance Project is not only "incorporated," it is stipulated on this arrangement both the graduate of Harvard and the novice at Yale apparently pooled their organizational expertise, that the handymen themselves would be the only shareholders.

"Does the organization make money?" an unfeeling journalist asked? Well, no. Silence. Well, why the stock-hokum? But nobody asked the question. We had already been told by the chairman that handymen cannot take pride unless they are working for themselves, whence the corporation.

PRACTICAL IDEALISM
How were the handymen recruited? Beautiful. The first 27 men who walked in from the street. "Some of them punched the clock during the training period and then left before classes began. Some of them smoked pot during class hours."

There were occasional difficulties in on-the-spot training (25 of the 27 had criminal records). "One cat out on a job would cut a machine and split with it." But, eventually, half of the matriculators graduated, and are now earning $2.25 per hour. They are not numerous, they do not prove or disprove an ideological point.

It is hardly an exercise in capitalism. The program was funded by government money. The per capita cost of rehabilitation is wildly excessive in free market terms. The rhetoric of the private corporation and dividends is illusory. But they are, like others who have been set right at Hough, testimony to the practical idealism of the anxious, busy, talkative, ambitious, ingratiating black social entrepreneurs of Cleveland.

Appleton Should Learn to Accept Thoughts of Peace

Editor, Post-Crescent:

What a shame so many "do gooders" saw fit to exhibit their displeasure with all forms of demonstrations by performing one of their own, at the recent peace fast.

The least you can say of the Lawrence students who conducted the fast, was that it was in keeping the theme of "peace." The most one could say for those who resorted to weapons of foul language blurred out the windows of passing vehicles is that they helped prove the need for a revolution in public thinking. The rebellion should nurture love, respect and peace instead of hate, profanity and violence.

How about it Appleton? Is this the way we go about getting serious over the problems of today's world? Do we give our support only to war efforts? Or is there room in our town and in our hearts for peace efforts?

Perhaps you see little relation between a "fast for peace" and an actual end to wars. I seriously doubt if anyone involved in the fast thought of it as an immediate solution to obtaining victory over conflicts.

But look at it this way, if you will. Students learn to solve problems by evaluations leading them to the roots of the difficulty. Perhaps they have discovered "fear of war" inhibits today's society. Maybe their point is that we must accept peace and thoughts of peace as heroically and with as much determination as we accept the challenge of war.

Proposal to Improve Caliber, Training of Police Most Timely

By JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — What is potentially one of the major opportunities for constructive action by the current legislature has been strikingly little notice thus far.

It is the measure requested by Gov. Knowles, and sponsored by a prestigious list of Senate and Assembly authors.

Wyngaard

that would take the first step toward the professionalization of law enforcement in the state by the creation of a law enforcement standards board.

The board's major purpose would be to establish minimum educational and training standards for police recruits and to certify qualified persons.

WOULD CREATE ACADEMY

It would establish minimum curriculum requirements and collaborate with local governments and educational institutions in the development of law enforcement training schools. After Jan. 1, 1970, under the bill, no person would be qualified for a new appointment as a law enforcement officer unless he satisfactorily completed a program approved by the board and he was certified by the board.

The board would be able to reimburse local governments for the salary and tuition costs of officers assigned to attend approved training programs, and it would be directed to establish a state training academy.

The seriousness of intent of the proposal, as shown by the provision that the academy shall have the capacity to accommodate at least 200 men at each training period.

This reporter does not propose to join the police baiters who are evidently more numerous today than ever before. Indeed, some of my best friends are policemen, and efficient, dedicated, conscientious officers.

CIVIL UNREST THREATENS

Yet it is evident that the civil unrest in the country has reached a serious stage, that Wisconsin is not immune, that there have been serious spon-aneous or contrived confrontations between rebellious elements and the law enforcement establishment, and that there is no assurance that they won't be continued, or won't become even more dangerous and violent.

Some professional reporters of my acquaintance who have had experience in these matters assert solemnly that the police are not always as cool and restrained as they ought to be in the ideal, and the probability is that they are right. If, indeed, this is a problem as some honorable critics insist, here is the best of all reasons for more training requirements for recruits before employment and in-service training for the forces already employed.

At a time when the legislature is seriously considering higher training requirements for other trades and professions that are not even remotely comparable to the police in social significance, it is difficult to understand why there should be any hesitation about up-grading the professional education of the law officer.

HIGHER PAY NEEDED

But setting up the training machinery won't automatically assure the ideally fair, cool, efficient policeman who will have the professional status to command the respect of the community he serves, including its rebellious elements.

There is the question of recruiting the quality of man that good law enforcement peculiarly requires. What father today would encourage his son at the age of majority to become a police officer, when he can enroll in a diesel truck driving school and be assured of twice the annual salary and fringe benefits? Or a bar man, or a journeyman carpenter, or a variety of other work classifications?

The standards board and the training academy bill represent a start, and show the thoughtful realization by state government leaders of the problem of uplifting law enforcement. But it is only a start.

Ultimately the people must face the problem of financing law enforcement payrolls at a level commensurate with the professional quality of service the community wants, and increasingly realizes it needs. That will require state intervention also, for the local finance structure has virtually reached the limit of its capacity in the state as a whole.

Thoughts at Large Occupy Harris Today

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

The only legitimate purpose of hate is to achieve subsequent leisure; but most people who are in haste treat it as an end in itself and not as a means, thus condemning themselves to perpetual breathlessness.

The worst injury that so-called religious people have done to Christian theology is to promote a false conception of a Heaven that no sensible person would be willing to inhabit for an eternity; this stained-glass religiosity is a greater enemy of faith than atheism is.

A hypochondriac is someone who can't leave sick enough alone.

The fastest and surest way for me to get a reputation for good judgment is to applaud your good judgment.

"Misunderstanding" is not always a bad thing between people: as Clarence Darrow once candidly confessed, "I have been hurt by being misunderstood much of my life, but I would have been hurt even more if I had been understood."

True modesty is possible only among nudists: people who wear clothes can only be coy about it.

of other people's money is the root of evil.

The difference between a "moralizer" and a genuine moralist is that the moralizer believes that all human acts are either right or wrong and puts them in rigid categories, while the moralist knows that 90 per cent of human behavior is morally neutral, and reserves his judgment (and his indignation) for the 10 per cent that touches on basic relations between men.

The epitaph for our century (if anyone is left to read it) was expressed by Winston Churchill, when he observed: "The power of man has grown in every sphere, except over himself."

It's an interesting psychic quirk that the same person who will modestly disclaim praise that he deserves will eagerly lap up a compliment that is outrageously beyond the truth.

Whatever their differences, all reducing diets have the same fundamental defect — they apply to people.

The hope that one will change after you marry him is usually fulfilled, but rarely in quite the way it was hoped for.

Speaking of marriage, I can't agree with the anonymous wit who said, "A man can save himself a lot of trouble by marrying his second wife first" — for if he did, he'd soon go around looking for his first one.
